By STEVE HELLMAN

RACES WERE CLOSE in many local election contests Tuesday where voting was influenced by sweeping national Republican victories and last-minute rhetoric between candidates.

Despite the landslide presidential win by conservative Republican Ronald Reagan, Democrats and the more liberal candidates won in local, state and county races.

William Peters of Carmel Valley narrowly defeated conservative Neill Gardner of Pacific Grove in the Fifth Supervisorial race, 12,445 to 11,754, or 51.4 to 48.5 percent.

The voting in precincts in Carmel Valley, Carmel and surrounding areas gave Peters a slightly greater margin, 55 percent to 45 percent.

The tight race saw Gardner close the wide 38 to 26 percent

SINGLE PARENTS

He won court case for children's custody

By TERRI LEE ROBBE

ALAN CORDAN of Carmel is a single father.

He compares his lifestyle with son, Andy, 17, as being much like that of the father and son in the award-winning movie Kramer vs. Kramer. In fact, he questions if the movie wasn't patterned after his 1972 child custody case which he said set a precedent in New York state.

Cordan, 46, has strong feelings about child-parent relationships.

He pushed his stylish western cut hat back and his eyes took on a seriousness as he talked about his fight to gain custody of his children.

"My children are very important to me," said Cordan. "And I didn't think that divorce should separate me from them just because I was a man. I knew that a court fight would be unpleasant and that my chances of winning were about 90 to 10 against me — but I had to take that chance."

By the time he had started court proceedings to gain custody of his two children by his first wife, Cordan had remarried. At that time his son was 10 and his daughter, Muffin, was 7. He said he hired the best lawyers he could find and, after eight months and $15,000, he was told he was fighting a losing battle.

"They sat me down with my second wife, Penny, and told me to forget about going to court because there was no way that I could win," said Cordan. "I gave up on them, but I didn't give up the fight."

He said, "Things have changed since 1972 and more fathers are seeking and winning custody of their children."

"When I made my decision to keep fighting the case I realized that most judges felt that unless a mother was an unfit person, the children were better off with their mother."

Cordan did decide to continue the case, so he hired new lawyers and had the case moved to New City, N.Y., the small town where he was living at the time.

"I felt my chances of winning would be better in a smaller town," said Cordan. "The children's mother had remarried and was living in Virginia, so there was nothing to stop me from having the case moved."

When the court case finally ended, Cordan had won legal custody of his children. He stressed that he had won that custody from a competent mother, so when his daughter asked to remain with her mother, Cordan said he had not worried that the child would be mistreated.

CORDAN MARRIED his second wife in Fire Island, N.Y., in 1970.

He recalled their first meeting.

"I was vacationing in San Juan, Puerto Rico, and I love to fish so I was surf fishing at 6:30 a.m. Penny was playing ball on the beach with her little daughter, Holly. The child's ball bounced into my fishing pole — and that was the beginning."

In memory of that first meeting, they were married on the same beach. "It was pouring rain so we wore our bikinis," said Cordan.

After the marriage, Cordan adopted his wife's daughter and she adopted his son, Andy. They later had a child of their own, Melanie, now 7.

Cordan legally separated from his second wife in March. His adopted daughter, Holly, lives equally with each parent. Of her own RENA KOPP of Carmel is a single mother.

She freely admits that her 4-year-old son, Wayland, is a handful — but she can't imagine life without him.

"I'm a good mother and a happy person," said Ms. Kopp.

"I'm proud of myself for what I have accomplished. I keep a good home for Wayland, have a nice car, work hard and have time to enjoy my son and still have a life of my own."

Ms. Kopp, 25, moved to Carmel from Georgia last December and works at The General Store. Her long, blond hair frames a pretty face with dark blue eyes and a quick smile.

She was born in Germany. When she was 9 her mother remarried a serviceman and moved the family to New Hampshire and later to Georgia.

She married at 16. Three years later she sought a divorce and moved to Pacific Grove to be near her brother, Harold Kopp.

Shortly after her arrival on the Peninsula she met the man who was to be her child's father.

"I REALLY DIDN'T WANT to get married so we lived together for five years," said

Council changes mind on Big Sur

By JOANNE HODGEN

THE CARMEL CITY COUNCIL did an about face Monday, Nov. 3, when it voted to rescind an earlier resolution calling for an environmental impact statement on Big Sur legislation.

A resolution introduced by Christine Mack asking the city to pursue its resolution adopted in August backfired when the council voted 4-1 to withdraw it. Mayor Barney Laiolo, citing the need for an EIS, was opposed.

A bill titled the Big Sur Coast Area Act (HR 7380) was introduced by U.S. Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., in May and passed by the House Aug. 25.

The council resolution stated that Carmel has a vital interest in protecting its visitor industry and environment. It said that the "environmental impact of a significant increase of tourists in terms of sheer numbers and growth inducement alone as well as in specific areas of water, sanitation, traffic, air pollution, litter and law enforcement needs careful study and planning."

The resolution called for Panetta to effect an immediate freeze on HR 7380 and initiate a "full Environmental Impact Statement by the federal authorities with particular emphasis on the impacts this proposed legislation will have on the City of Carmel and its surrounding areas."

The Big Sur legislation calls for federal management of the Big Sur area with the Local Coastal Plan for Big Sur serving as the land element. A council of local representatives would oversee the management plan.

A PARADE of proponents and opponents to the bill appeared before the council Monday.

Councilwoman Helen Arnold, in supporting the Big Sur legislation, noted that opponents predict ruin for Big Sur if it falls under federal control. "I predict terrible things are already happening," she said.

Mrs. Arnold said there are 35 agencies in this area that have jurisdiction in Big Sur and they need to be coordinated.

She immediately introduced a motion rescinding the original resolution. Mrs. Arnold said, to save the city the embarrassment of blocking legislation when it has an international reputation for protecting the environment.

Mayor Barney Laiolo said, "I don't think we need the federal government to tell us how to run our business. I am not one to support bureaucracy and that is exactly what we would have then."

Mrs. Arnold countered that the legislation calls for the area to be managed by local people.

Mrs. Mack, a Carmel resident and owner of the Garrapata trout farm, said she was calling on the council's sense of responsibility to the community in asking it to take action on its earlier resolution.

Because the federal government would gain jurisdiction over 160,000 acres, she said, it is critical that the community know what the effects will be.

A Local Coastal Plan for Big Sur and surrounding areas is to be incorporated into the legislation.

Fred Farr of the Big Sur Foundation and a property owner there said that to ask for an EIS would be a waste of taxpayer money.

"To ask the government for an EIS without a plan would be a foolish act," he said.

Ann Barte Holliday, who introduced the original resolution, said that Panetta denied there was a process for an EIS after the legislation was introduced.

"There is a very definite process to do an EIS," she insisted. "If the Panetta bill is so good then why are we rushing it through and why can't we have a study for Carmel residents? To rescind the resolution would be frightfully irresponsible. We have a lot to protect here."

Countering Farr's statement, she noted that 170 environmental impact studies were ordered for the desert regions. "The federal government can spend a little energy and time for the people here," she said.

Mrs. Arnold noted that an EIS could take 18 to 24 months to complete, during which time the legislation would remain in limbo.

She said that predictions indicate that visitors to the region will double from three million to six million in the next 15 to 20 years. An EIS, she said, would slow the process to the detriment of Big Sur.

SANDY HILLYER of Monterey, president of the Big Sur Foundation, agreed with Mrs. Arnold. He said that supporting an EIS "amounts to a position by Carmel to oppose Panetta's bill."

Jean Grace of Carmel noted that though the local planning process has continued for nearly three years, she sees very few Carmel residents at the meetings.

"I feel the tourists are going to come regardless. The area should be protected as best we can," she said.

Earl Moser, a 20-year Carmel area resident and former member of the now defunct Save the Big Sur Coast League, said he knows and understands Big Sur.

"Big Sur is on the verge of being destroyed," he warned.

Cypressaires try to harmonize with city

By JOANNE HODGEN

THE CYPRESSAIRES, a barbershop singing group which received a $750 cultural grant from the Carmel City Council in October, may donate part of its fund-raising proceeds to a charitable organization in Kansas.

The singing group is part of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America Inc. (SPEBSQSA) a national organization.

In a memorandum submitted to the City Council by the Cultural Commission at the Oct. 13 council meeting, the commission recommended that no money be given to the Cypressaires.

The memo stated: "The Cypressaires requested funds to replace attire worn while performing. The commission felt this was a capital improvement. While they raise funds for charitable activity, the monies received are allocated by the parent association to an out-of-state charity."

'The city at one time charged nonprofit organizations 50 percent less for the use of Sunset Center than other groups and individuals.'

Bryan Epps, speaking for the organization at the council meeting, said that the group controls its charitable activities and plans to contribute money to aid deaf and hard-of-hearing children in Carmel schools.

However, Richard Tyler, director of Sunset Center, said that the "whole idea of grants is to assist organizations that cannot meet fiscal responsibilities."

"We gave money to an organization that gives money away. They (the City Council) chose someone to contribute somewhere else."

Epps said that the organization's charter does not require the Cypressaires to contribute to a designated charity.

A member, he said, is preparing a report on the needs of deaf children at Middle and Tularcitos Schools. The

Though the draft LCP suggested several hundred acres be required per resident, the recommendation was not adopted, he said.

Moser warned that the LCP will not be effective to protect the area from being developed.

Implying that large special interest groups are urging passage of the legislation, Paula Talling of Big Sur said to "trust the Big Sur coast to the government is to entrust it to the same corporations which have pushed Panetta and U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston to introduce bills. If it were a sincere bill there is no rush for it."

She said the bill may "make a few people an awful lot of money. An EIS is an honest way to go."

Don Hudson of the Carmel LCP Citizens Advisory Committee, noted that Panetta's bill calls for an LCP as part of the legislation, "yet the bill is being pushed forward and the LCP has not been adopted."

He said there is a dramatic increase in the number of visitors in most situations where there is federal involvement.

After Mrs. Arnold moved to rescind the resolution, Councilman Howard Brunn said that in retrospect the resolution was an idle act. "Tonight we have to take a strong position," he observed.

Brunn said, "I have to have faith that the federal government is not all bad."

"The county certainly doesn't have the money to handle the years ahead."

"The momentum on Panetta's bill has started and the momentum is good."

Cypressaire's board has not designated the deaf program as a recipient at this time, he said. "It's a board action and I think most of our members are in favor of it."

Councilman Mike Brown said he used the criteria of fiscal need when he voted to give the organization funds.

"They don't get paid for what they do. In turn, what they do is dip into their pockets to donate to organizations," Brown said.

Tyler noted that if members contribute money individually, then it cannot be considered a group donation.

MAYOR BARNEY LAIOLO, who is a former barbershopper, said that members buy their own uniforms and pay for transportation.

"The grant helps them on projects they have going," Laiolo said.

The city at one time charged nonprofit organizations 50 percent less for the use of Sunset Center than other groups and individuals. The council altered the policy about six years ago when Frank Riley was director. Deserving organizations were initially reimbursed 50 percent of their rents through cultural grants.

Rate charge for the auditorium is 10 percent of gross ticket sales, Tyler said.

Tyler said that new organizations often are granted more than 50 percent of the theater rental fee by the council.

THE BACH FESTIVAL, for instance, received more than it spent on the theater rental, he said.

The council granted the festival $14,000 in October, $5,000 more than the amount recommended by the Cultural Commission.

The commission's recommendation, Tyler said, was based on the income of $12,899 collected by the city in fiscal 1979-80.

Under the previous policy, the Festival would have received half of the theater rental fee from the council.

"Some organizations got a lot more than they gave us because they needed more help," Tyler said. "The Children's Experimental Theater was granted more. It works all year long for the community."

The Cypressaires paid about $450 for the use of Sunset Theater, according to Tyler.

"All the other organizations that receive funds still have to go out and get other donations," Tyler explained.

LOT FOR THE LIBRARY

Council votes to buy Thompson land for annex

By JOANNE HODGEN

A HEATED SESSION OF name calling and accusations of illegal executive meetings ended Monday, Nov. 3, when the Carmel City Council voted 4-1 to proceed with the purchase of the lot owned by James Thompson for a library annex.

Mayor Barney Laiolo cast the dissenting vote, voicing support for the project, but objecting to a lack of public meetings on the issue.

An agreement was reached earlier between the city and Thompson, a San Leandro lawyer, for the 40-by-100-foot site at a price of $172,500. The lot is on the northwest corner of Lincoln and Sixth, abutting a city parking lot of the same size.

City Attorney George Brehmer presented a real estate purchase contract to the council Monday, asking members to approve its terms.

Two cottages are on the property, one of which houses an elderly resident. The agreement states that 90 days after written notice, Thompson will remove all of the structures from the property at his expense. The agreement also states that the tenant will be relocated at Thompson's expense.

According to the contract, escrow will not close later than Nov. 24. The contract also states that "although this purchase is being concluded by mutual agreement and condemnation proceedings have not yet been filed," the city would have proceeded to condemn the property had Thompson not agreed to the terms. The city acknowledged, according to the contract, that Thompson made the sale under the threat of condemnation.

Brehmer said that the clause was included to protect the tax benefit that results from an agreement made in lieu of condemnation.

LAIOLO requested that the proposal and library annex plans be brought to the council at a later date with all "the ins and outs that may occur. The library board never had a public hearing to discuss this annex."

'The city acknowledged, according to the contract, that Thompson made the sale under the threat of condemnation.'

Councilman Frank Lloyd countered, "The annex to the library has been discussed and discussed."

Laiolo said, "We owe it to the public to know just what we are doing. We've never told the people what we're going to spend.

"When you talk about spending $170,000, the public should be informed."

Librarian Jo Childers told the council that the library board will have a public information hearing when plans and cost estimates are completed. "We don't yet have an architect," she said.

When Laiolo said discussion of the purchase in executive session should have been brought "into the open," Lloyd retorted: "There's been no undercover moves by the board.

"I'm not saying anything is undercover," Laiolo said, and added, "I cannot support executive sessions to discuss a property purchase.

"Do you think there's a possibility we've done something illegal?" Laiolo asked. He answered his question when he said, "If we go into an executive session to discuss buying property it is not the same thing as talking about personnel."

Lloyd told Laiolo that if he were making accusations then to name specific incidents. "If you can't name specifics then I don't understand," Lloyd retorted.

Laiolo shouted, "If you don't understand you're just plain stupid."

Councilman Howard Brunn interjected later, "I'd like to know what the hell you're talking about. If we've done something illegal I really think our attorney should be consulted."

Brehmer told the council that because condemnation proceedings were considered during executive sessions the matter became one of litigation. That, he said, is addressed in executive sessions.

Brunn asked Laiolo, "Does that answer questions about the appropriateness of our actions?"

Library board member Bernard Anderson told the council that after 15 years of planning for an annex the public is fully aware of the project.

Anderson said if the council approved the purchase, "This will be one of the outstanding actions it has taken during its entire session."

Addition would cost $1 million without garage

More financing could be sought

By JOANNE HODGEN

THE HARRISON Memorial Library Board took a giant step closer to a proposed annex near the existing library when the Carmel City Council voted 4-1 to proceed with acquisition of a nearby lot owned by James Thompson at its meeting Monday, Nov. 3.

After years of delay and frustration, Board President Patricia Faul had told the Pine Cone earlier an annex would be built near the library whether or not the city purchased the lot.

Only the size of the proposed annex hinged on the acquisition of the Thompson property, which abuts a city parking lot, she explained. The parking lot is already marked for construction by the library board, according to Mrs. Faul.

The city property and Thompson property are each 40-by-100-foot lots.

The city and Thompson agreed to a price of $172,500 for the lot near the northwest corner of Lincoln and Sixth.

THE BOARD met Tuesday, Oct. 28, to discuss library space needs.

Librarian Jo Childers presented a library annex study that included requirements met by annexes of 15,500 and 12,300 square feet.

Mrs. Faul said the librarian was asked to project the minimum needs of the library now and "then make a projection for a building for the next 20 years."

The board agreed to pursue a 15,500-square-foot annex at an estimated cost of $1,027,500.

According to Mrs. Childers' report, the cost of a 12,300-square-foot annex is about $787,500.

An 18,000-square-foot underground garage was also incorporated in the study as an option in both plans to compensate for the loss of the parking lot. It would cost about $320,000, the report said.

Mrs. Faul said the "board is at this time adamant that we can't afford to pay for parking."

The board wants the city to contribute "in-lieu" parking fee money if a garage is eventually required, Mrs. Faul explained.

(In-lieu parking fees are charged to builders who cannot provide parking spaces required as part of a construction project. The city projected in the fiscal 1980-81 report that in-lieu fees would total $416,780 by July 1981.)

Mrs. Childers said cost estimates are based on the California state average for library construction, including furnishings and equipment. She noted costs for a building in line with the style of the present library would be slightly lower.

Projected construction cost for 1981 is $75 a square foot, she said, while garage construction is estimated at $40 a square foot.

Patricia Faul

City money — not the library endowment fund — will finance the property acquisition now that the City Council has approved the purchase. Construction will be paid by the library endowment fund, which has about $600,000 according to Mrs. Childers.

Mrs. Faul observed that the library board may seek financing for the larger annex.

ASKED IF SUNSET Center was considered as an option for more library space, Mrs. Faul stated that it was ruled out "because the city does not have room or want it there. It's not handy at all to the library."

The annex, she said, should also be near the existing library to oversee staff and operations more efficiently.

Though the library annex would more than double the size of the present library, Mrs. Faul said there will be no increase in staffing.

"Operating cost increases would be in the area of building maintenance and utilities," she said.

Construction of a library next to Sunset Center was considered by the library board and City Council about eight years ago. The plan was overwhelmingly voted down by Carmel residents in an advisory referendum.

Mrs. Faul said this time "there's no need for it to go to the ballot. We feel we have had enough favorable input from the community."

However, she said that if the measure goes to the voters again and is turned down, "Harrison Library is perfectly free to build on the (city) lot with its own money.

"We feel we've really exhausted our options. We really feel we have examined the issue thoroughly."

Financing of the current library operations is shared by the City of Carmel and Monterey County.

The library charter calls for Harrison Memorial Library to service Carmel and the outlying areas. The library is under contract with the county now to serve county patrons.

During fiscal 1980-81 budget sessions, the city budgeted $193,925 for library operating costs. The county has been asked for $188,720, though it has not been received yet, according to Mrs. Faul. County Administrator Richard Andrews has not responded to library board letters demanding funding now, she said. If the money is not received by Dec. 1, she said the board has agreed to suspend free services to county residents Jan. 1.

Mrs. Faul said the county is not obligated to contribute building money even though the library serves its residents.

"Legally the county only contracts with us for services. It is in no way bound to provide capital outlay money to us," she said.

In wake of Proposition 13, she observed, the county probably would not earmark money for library construction.

Mayor claims foul

THE CITY OF CARMEL opened escrow on property owned by James Thompson for a proposed library annex before the City Council approved the purchase in a public session, according to Mayor Barney Laiolo.

Council members, with the exception of Councilwoman Helen Arnold, did not learn of escrow proceedings until the council meeting Monday, Nov. 3, Laiolo said.

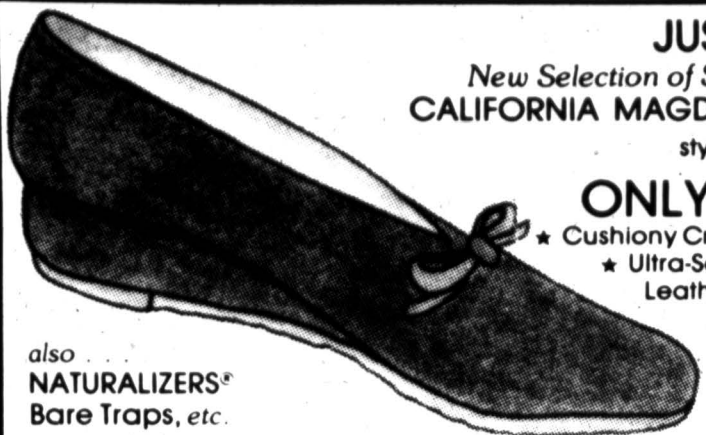

City Attorney George Brehmer told the council Monday that escrow was opened to obtain preliminary reports on the property.

The City Council voted 4-1, with Laiolo opposed, to purchase the 40-by-100-foot lot for $172,500. It is near the northwest corner of Lincoln and Sixth.

Laiolo said later that only personnel matters and lawsuits should be discussed in executive sessions.

Laiolo objected to a vote to purchase the property until a public hearing was called.

"If I put money in your grocery store then I want to get my groceries back," he said later.

Sunset rates increased

TENANTS at Sunset Center will find a heftier utility charge in their lease agreement now that the Carmel City Council has agreed to double those rates.

The Carmel Bach Festival, Monterey County Symphony and other organizations currently pay $15 monthly for utilities. The Friends of Photography pays $50 for a larger area. Organizations and individuals also lease rooms for 12 cents a square foot.

A study prepared by Sunset Center Director Richard Tyler and reviewed by the Carmel Cultural Commission indicated a 100 percent increase was needed in the utility rate to meet a portion of the heating and electric bills.

Tyler said earlier that utility bills jumped 150 percent since lease rates were adjusted five years ago.

City Administrator Doug Peterson told the council Monday, Nov. 3, that utilities doubled in the past year for Sunset Center.

Councilman Howard Brunn suggested the city staff prepare an energy study.

"Does the city have an energy policy? If so, I'm not aware of it," Brunn said.

"I have spoken of it a number of times and I have yet to see a concrete plan going into the 1980s," Brunn noted.

The utility rate increase was approved 5-0 by the council.

In the same motion, the council also agreed to consider using volunteer crossing guards to escort children across Rio Road near Carmel Mission.

Mayor Barney Laiolo said that the "hope is to get together with parents under the direction of the Police Department."

The city staff will continue to review safety signs in the area.

Yule plan backed

Businessmen

want stores

open later

By JOANNE HODGEN

THE CARMEL City Council voted 5-0 Monday, Nov. 3, to endorse a Carmel Business Association plan that would increase store hours during the Christmas season.

The CBA also scheduled the annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 5 at Junipero and Ocean.

The council vote is a "sense of the council" action.

In a letter to the council, the CBA noted that in the past few stores were open evenings and "local residents who wished to shop at that time had to go to other areas."

The CBA said that merchants supported keeping stores open until 9 p.m. weekdays starting two weeks before Christmas. CBA members, the letter said, will be asked to keep their stores open until 9 p.m. on the night of the tree lighting ceremony and Dec. 8 to 12, 15 to 19 and 22 and 23.

Other Christmas celebrations planned by the CBA include wandering singing groups during the early evening and window decorating contests.

The CBA also asked to decorate the Piccadilly Nursery property on Dolores between Seventh and Ocean to use as a plant collection center.

The nursery would be used one afternoon as the collection point for donations of plants and flowers which will be distributed to elderly people. The CBA is cooperating with the Carmel Garden Club.

In other council action:

■ A second reading of a curfew ordinance passed 3-2, with Councilman Howard Brunn and Frank Lloyd opposed.

The curfew will go into effect in 30 days.

All persons 17 years and younger will be prohibited from loitering in public places between 11 a.m. and dawn.

■ Zoning ordinances that would establish a procedure for the adjustment of lot lines and clarify the definition of a building site were passed 5-0.

Panetta, Farr, Peters, Mello win

margin that had separated the candidates in the June 3 primary.

Peters said the vote was close because of the Republican groundswell. Although the office is nonpartisan, Gardner had billed himself as a conservative Republican. Peters also said he was hurt by a civil lawsuit filed by the district attorney a week before the election which charged that he failed to file proper financial disclosure statements.

District Attorney William Curtis said yesterday he will proceed with the civil action against Peters. He said he hoped that, with the election over, Peters would file proper statements. Curtis disclaimed, however, that he intended to file criminal charges in the case.

Peters has maintained that he is not guilty of any improprieties in failing to list a real estate investment in Carmel Valley that his father-in-law was a party to and in failing to list a free pass to the Carmel Valley Ranch tennis club.

DEMOCRAT SAM FARR beat Republican Ann Welchner for the state 28th Assembly District seat, 67,379 to 47,655.

However, while Farr won in both Monterey and Santa Cruz counties, he lost to Mrs. Welchner in the Carmel-Carmel Valley area.

Farr, who had fallen into disfavor for his votes on local planning issues, trailed Mrs. Welchner in the local precincts, 38 to 56 percent. In Carmel Valley, Mrs. Welchner overwhelmed him by a 2-1 margin, 1,729 to 869 votes.

THE SAME VOTING PATTERN was revealed in the race between Republican Eric Seastrand and Democrat Henry Mello for the state 17th Senate District.

Mello narrowly won, 116,892 to 115,827, while in the Carmel and Carmel Valley precincts, Seastrand scored a healthy majority. The voting in 26 precincts here gave Seastrand a majority, 4,158 to 3,369, or 53 to 43 percent.

REP. LEON PANETTA, D-Monterey, easily retained his U.S. congressional seat, defeating Republican Jack Roth by a more than 2-1 margin in local precincts and overall.

The Republican gains in the Senate and House bode unfavorably for his Big Sur bill, Panetta said yesterday. He said that unless the bill is pushed through by this lame-duck Congress, it faces little chance of approval in a Republican-dominated Senate.

"The real test will be in the next few weeks," he said. "It'll depend on whether (Sen.) Cranston can move it on the Senate side."

While the votes for the bill to designate Big Sur a federal wilderness area were lined up before the election, Panetta said the Senate may be unwilling to take up serious budget legislation during the lame-duck session, "especially since there are so many lame ducks." The bill calls for, among other things, appropriating $30 million for public land acquisition in Big Sur.

Commenting on the Republican landslide, Panetta said, "I always felt Reagan was going to win, but I was surprised by the impact on the House and Senate. The level of frustration of the public and the demand for action is clear."

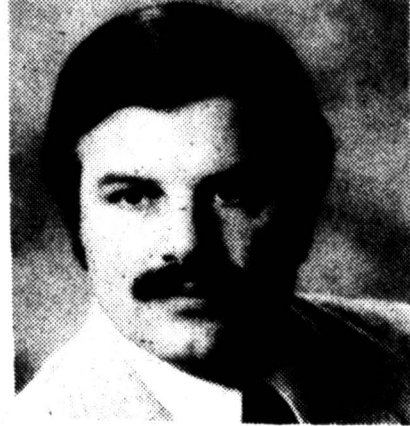

PETERS, interviewed at his victory party in the Mission Ranch election night, maintained that his race was close because of what he called "smear tactics" from his opponent.

"Obviously, the lawsuit hurt us," he said, maintaining that it was prompted by his opponents. However, he said, "It's the kind of smear tactic that probably caused a backlash and ended up helping us."

Asked what he would do to dispel suspicions about his financial dealings in the Valley, Peters insisted there were no more skeletons in the closet.

Henry Mello

William Peters

"If there were other things wrong," he said, "there would have been more allegations."

What about the free pass that he had accepted to the Carmel Valley Ranch tennis club? Did he see that as a compromise of his growth-control stand?

"No way," he replied. "Look around at your City Council, at the rest of the local officials. Ask the whole world. The whole system's been like that for years."

His victory, Peters contended, was aided by the fact that Gardner ran as "an arch-conservative Republican, while I remained nonpartisan."

He admitted that his win bucked the trend nationwide which had favored conservatives. He insisted, however, that President Carter's early concession speech did not affect the supervisorial race.

Gardner conceded defeat by midnight. He said the outcome of the presidential race did not affect the supervisorial contest.

Asked if he would run again in four years, Gardner said only: "I think something positive will come out of it (Peters' win). God knows what he's doing."

Campaign supporters at Farr's victory celebration in the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club called his win the one bright spot against the Republican landslide.

Farr said his narrow lead in the early going "scared the hell out of me."

He criticized Carter for "poor taste and tactics" in calling it all over three hours before the polls on the West Coast closed.

"Carter's concession was a disservice to statewide and local issues," Farr said, noting that campaign workers stationed at the polls found fewer Democrats coming to vote after the president's speech.

Farr said his victory over Mrs. Welchner was closer than he had expected, resulting in part from a "coattail effect of Reagan's victory."

Asked about opinions that he will be out of his league in the state Assembly, Farr said he disagreed with his image as an easy-going, non-aggressive politician. "The glamor candidates are short-lived," he said. "I think people will find that my experience on the Board of Supervisors will help me be an effective legislator in Sacramento."

Would it be a difficult year to enter the Assembly when it is expected that the state budget surplus will be used up and the impact of Proposition 13 felt full force?

"We'll have to look at new methods of handling public money," he said. "It will mean handing back the job of services to the local governments."

He said he supported a vote on the peripheral canal. "It's the biggest project in the state's history. We ought to have a statewide dialog on it," he said.

A new kind of leadership is coming, Farr said, where the leaders who tell the public what to do will be replaced by a process where the public is more involved in the decisions. He cited as an example the 2½ years of citizens' work in revising the Carmel Valley Master Plan.

Mrs. Welchner maintained that the presidential race did not affect the Assembly contest.

"Obviously it didn't," she said. "I'm not sure it (the Republican landslide) got down that far that it affected conservative candidates running for local office."

Did dropping out of the race during the June primary for health reasons, then re-entering it affect the outcome?

"It had a detrimental effect," she said. "I never did get funding out of Sacramento from the Republican Party. The fact that I had dropped out had an impact."

Asked if she would run again in four years, Mrs. Welchner said, "I haven't the vaguest idea at this point." She said she would remain active in local issues.

THE USER FEE measure for fire protection in the Carmel Highlands was defeated, receiving 62.6 percent of the vote, or less than the 66.6 percent required for approval.

The vote was 451 to 251.

Housing for aged, yes; smoking plan, no

By JOANNE HODGEN

CARMEL VOTERS overwhelmingly supported housing for the aged while rejecting an advisory measure to regulate smoking in Carmel restaurants.

The senior housing resolution was approved 1,847 to 822. The smoking advisory was rejected 1,558 to 1,133.

Carmel voters were asked to approve a low-cost housing project for senior citizens spearheaded by the city.

Housing units are proposed for city property on Dolores between Fourth and Fifth. The ballot measure stated that the city will work in cooperation with a qualified private or public organization to build low-cost housing for residents.

The 80-by-100-foot lot was purchased by the city in December 1979 for a parking lot.

Mayor Barney Laiolo said he still wants an underground garage, with about 20 apartments constructed on two levels. He said he estimated the garage will cost more than $160,000.

"To me that's better than the other things they (the City Council) have been throwing their money away on," Laiolo said.

He said he will contact the organizations before he presents his plans for low-cost housing to the Council. He said he will speak with representatives of the Carmel Foundation and Salvation Army, who in turn must consult with their respective boards of directors.

Approval of a low-cost housing project by a majority of voters was required by Article 34 of the state Constitution, according to City Attorney George Brehmer, before construction can begin.

THE ADVISORY question that asked Carmel voters whether smoking should be regulated in Carmel restaurants was turned down by 425 votes.

Councilman Howard Brunn asked the City Council in August to place the question on the ballot.

Because it was an advisory question, the council would not have been required to adopt regulations if it passed.

After the election, Brunn said he would not pursue a no-smoking ordinance.

"As long as 400 more people want smoking in restaurants, I certainly don't pursue it any further," he said. "But it doesn't change my thinking."

Ultimate Frisbee team to compete

By STEVE HELLMAN

THE CARMEL Flyers Ultimate Frisbee team faces Robert Louis Stevenson school in its first tournament game.

The teams will toss the Frisbee at noon Sunday, Nov. 9, on the lower field, Carmel Middle School.

The Flyers, with 17 members from Carmel High School, Carmel Middle School and Monterey Peninsula College, was formed this fall as part of the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center recreation program.

Chris Browning, a gym teacher at Middle School, is the Flyers' coach.

"We've got so many good people, it's going to be hard picking the starting lineup," she said.

The turnout for the team has been much better than she expected, Ms. Browning said. At first she feared that football and other after-school sports would keep students away. But she said the Flyers get about one additional player weekly, mostly by word of mouth.

Team members are Ron Byrne, Andy Fremier, Nicky Glaser, Joe Gleason, Tony Players appear to be dancing.

Grissim, Mike Lucido, Steve Martin, Eric McQuire, Brian Nance, Mark Nottenkamper, Jimmy Paik, Brian Pearson, John Rudolph, Carl Salmons, Mike Smith, Trey Whipple and Mark Wirtz.

Ultimate is a soccer-style game played with a frisbee and seven players on a side; it is non-contact and entails lots of running and deft passing and catching, Ms. Browning explained.

T-shirts have been donated to the team by Ferrari West of Monterey, she said.

Joe Gleason, 16, a junior at Carmel High School, said teamwork would be a big factor in the game and he said the Flyers have it. He added that he had never before played Ultimate.

Brian Nance, a 16-year-old junior, said he has played Frisbee since he can remember.

"It's great to be in Ultimate, doing more than just throwing the Frisbee," he said. "We're going to blow RLS away."

sophomore, noted that he had played Ultimate before with the Carmel Wings, a team formed two summers ago, then disbanded.

"Ultimate keeps you in shape," he said. "We're all friends on the team, we should give RLS a good game."

Quickness, accuracy and height are the prime factors for a win, he said.

"The main thing is if you can catch a Frisbee."

Trey Whipple, a 15-year-old sophomore, said he joined the Flyers after he heard about it from friends.

"I haven't played Ultimate before," he said. "It's a good game, it's fun."

Mike Wirtz is the Flyers' youngest member. An eleven-year-old sixth grader from Middle School, he said he joined the team after watching it practice one day.

Asked if his small size was a drawback, he said, "If you run too fast it gets tiring."

Jim Pack, 20 and a student at MPC, said he played for the Carmel Wings last summer, then joined the Flyers because he totally enjoys Frisbee.

"The team's hot," he said. "The main thing is being with the Frisbee."

It's supposed to be a non-contact sport.

Padre girls win 100th swim meet

Varsity streak is 80 in a row

By ELIZABETH SARET
WILL IT ever end?

What a way to finish the season. On Tuesday, Oct. 28, a day that will go down in the record books, the Carmel High School Varsity Girls swim team won its 100th meet in 10 years by defeating Watsonville High 116-40 in Watsonville.

A very wet (after the traditional dunking) but happy coach Bob Walthour said, "There may be a better record somewhere, but I don't know of one."

Walthour has another reason to be proud: His frosh-soph team is also undefeated this season. It has won 105 of the 110 events during the season. The overall record for the frosh-soph team in 10 years is 95-6. The Varsity girls finished their dual meet season undefeated at 10-0.

The Padres have 80 straight wins.

They were like lightning on

The Padre Babes were led by Ann McCreery and Amy Buckner, who had two first places each.

Walthour and his assistants were given the traditional dunking in the pool after the victory.

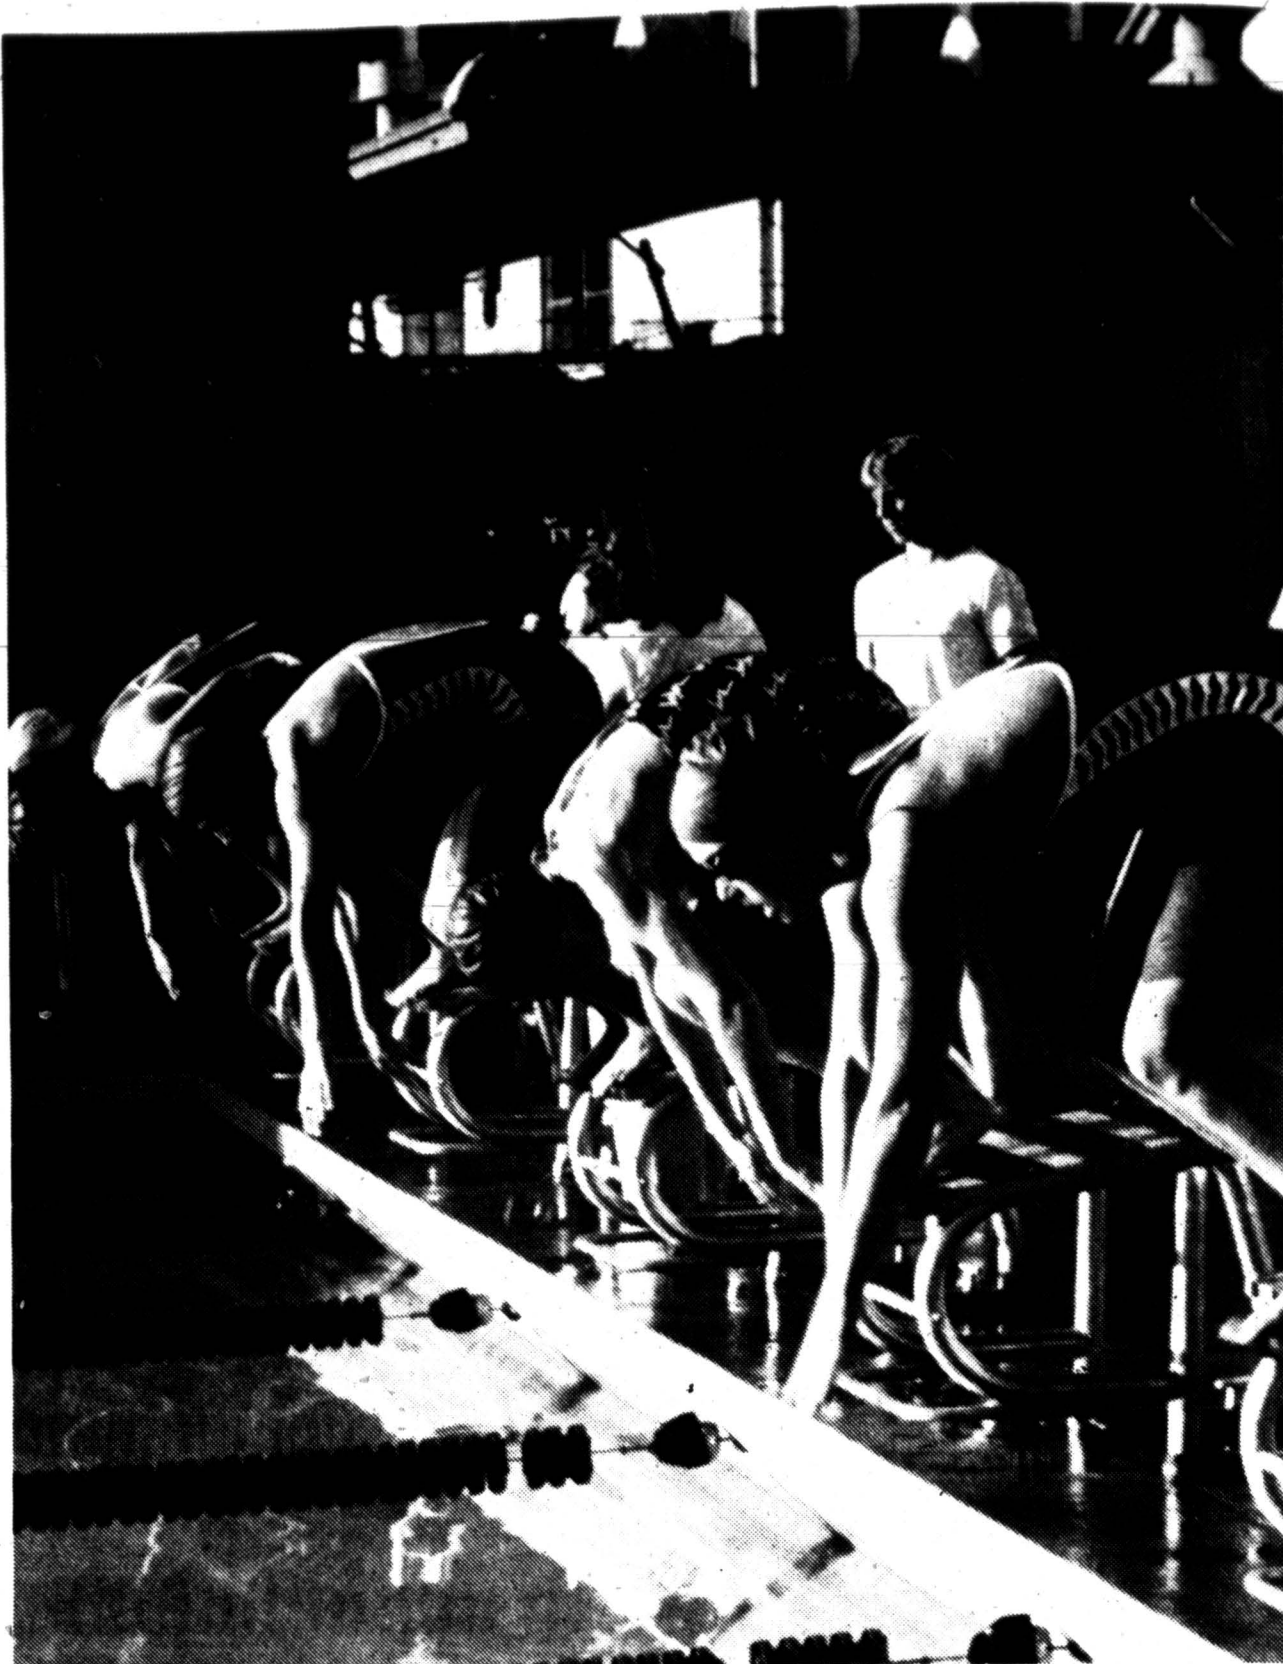

On Oct. 29 the Carmel High Varsity water polo team defeated Robert Louis Stevenson School 11-5, and the frosh-soph team won 16-6.

against Hollister today, and on Nov. 11 Carmel hosts a match against Gonzales. On Nov. 13 Carmel plays number one Santa Catalina and if Carmel wins all of those matches it will be tied for first place in league.

MORE INJURIES plague the already beleaguered Carmel High football team, which is now 0-4 in league and 1-6 overall.

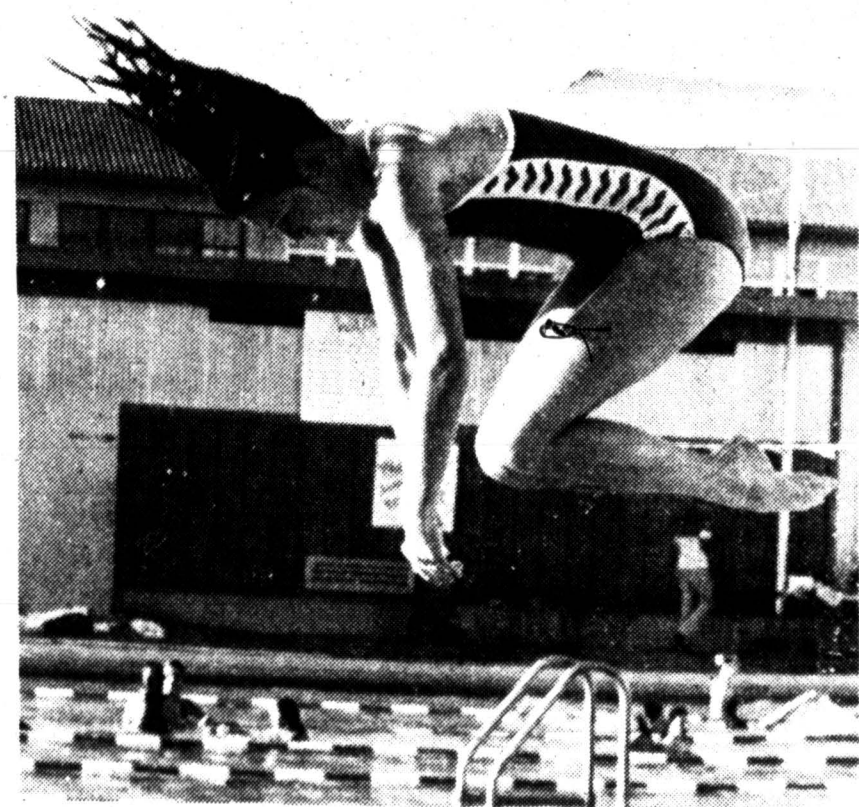

Three players — quarterback Chris Cryns, guard Jim Fellows and tackle Pat McBrayer — had to be carried off the field in the homecoming game Oct. 25, adding to the already long list of injured players. Carmel lost to King City 33-14.

The game was full of turnovers and penalties. Carmel just could not seem to hold on to the ball.

With 37 seconds left in the game, a fight broke out between the two teams and the game had to be called.

She sells gems for investment

By FLORENCE MASON

GEMME DE NICOLE

Nicole Duffel

What is "a precious commodity that is recognized internationally?"

To Nicole Duffel, it is a loose gem of investment quality.

Gemme de Nicole is not a store; it is the place where Mrs. Duffel pursues her business as a gem investment broker. This new business opened in Carmel Oct. 1. It is on the north side of "the Pine Inn block" — Sixth between Lincoln and Monte Verde.

Mrs. Duffel offers a wide range of loose gems of investment quality which she said can be used by the sophisticated investor as a hedge against inflation. Such gems, she said, can be beneficial to the owner in terms of his or her estate. "It's a more sophisticated approach to jewels than the possibly emotional buying of a valuable necklace or ring," she said.

Mrs. Duffel has an associate — A.H. "Brick" Stange, who lives in Woodside. Stange has mined and struck some of the major precious gem strikes in the world (in East Africa, for example) and has a cutting operation set up in southeast Asia. The result: gems that are unusual, rare and of the finest quality.

Mrs. Duffel's background and varied talents are also unusual. After traveling extensively with her mother — an artist who had painted in this area — she came to this area in 1961. From 1965 to 1971, she was the principal percussionist with the Monterey Symphony. In 1973 she married Gary Duffel and the couple moved to San Francisco. There, Duffel pursued his work as a real estate appraiser and Mrs. Duffel was in corporate management with Shreve and Co. jewelers. She did design work and purchased gems for that famous San Francisco store.

In 1976 the Duffels returned to this area, to a home in Carmel Highlands. Duffel continued in real estate appraisal; Mrs. Duffel became director of Gallery Carmel.

It was the novelty of a different approach from retail jewelry sales that spurred Mrs. Duffel into branching out on her own — into Gemme de Nicole, an unusual new business in Carmel.

CARMEL VILLAGE MARKET AND LIQUORS

Thomas J. Sweeney

"We decided that two markets weren't enough for Carmel and that a little competition would be good for everyone."

The speaker was Thomas Sweeney, owner of Carmel Village Market and Liquors at Dolores and Eighth. Known before as the Carmel Drive-In Market, the store has been completely remodeled, enlarged and re-stocked. The market, an adjacent liquor store and an expanded delicatessen are all under one roof. The meat market continues as a separate store; its owner has brought in an experienced partner.

Laughing about the coincidence of this new store's opening and the move of Nielsen's Market to its new building, Sweeney said, "We're probably the non-supermarket now!" He claimed, "Our prices on produce are the lowest in the Monterey area."

Sweeney is originally from Oakland and studied business administration at the University of San Francisco. He owns several businesses in this area and at Lake Tahoe and elsewhere. Buying and selling is part of it; he has owned 15 to 20 businesses in the past 11 years. Another current interest is the conversion of a Monterey gas station into a convenience store.

It's probably obvious that he doesn't have much time for outside interests — except golf, which he can enjoy right from his home by the seventh fairway at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. At home also are his wife, Christine, and their 4-year-old daughter, Kelley Marie.

Mrs. Sweeney "just keeps the books," but the word "just" should perhaps be omitted when one considers the number and variety of businesses engaged in by her energetic husband.

HANAGASA

Hisako Evans

From "Rinky Dink" to Hanagasa — that's the recent history of a restaurant on Eighth between Mission and San Carlos.

Hisako Evans has brought Carmel its second Japanese restaurant.

Hanagasa, which opened last month, seats 28. Decorated in Japanese style, it features teriyaki, sukiyaki, tempura and other typical Japanese dishes. Mrs. Evans — a former waitress — insists on good service as well as good food.

She is helped by her five children, all of whom pitch in from time to time. Two are in college (one at Hayward State and one at MPC); the other three are still at home in Marina. Their ages are 18 to 24.

Mrs. Evans, 48, is a widow whose husband was in the Army. That meant lots of travel during her marriage. But it was to the Monterey Peninsula that she came when she decided to settle down. As for opening a restaurant on her own: "I just wanted to try!"

With what time she has for leisure activities, Mrs. Evans likes to read; novels are her preference.

If you are wondering what the name "Hanagasa" means, it is the rice paddy hat, dressed up as for folk dancing with a splash of flowers.

Parents at Woods win battle

Warning given: Schools may close

By STEVE HELLMAN

THE FIGHT to add another teacher at Woods Elementary School has pointed up the Carmel Unified School District's continuing financial dilemma.

One school trustee warned that the dwindling supply of money could force the district to close its schools in March.

Debate over the cost and need for a sixth teacher at the district's second smallest elementary school consumed most of the Board of Education's Oct. 28 meeting.

The board — caught between the district's financial woes, unresolved salary negotiations with classified employees and a plea from Woods parents — finally voted 3-2 to hire another full-time teacher.

The action was taken to contend with a larger than expected enrollment at Woods which had forced teachers to combine pupils from different grades in the same classroom.

Two teacher's aides who had been hired to help handle the over-loaded classes will be laid off as a cost-saving trade-off to add the teacher.

Board members split over whether the estimated $11,000 to $18,000 needed for the new teacher could be found in an already thinly-stretched budget.

TRUSTEES DOYLE CLAYTON and Frances Gaver voted against hiring another teacher.

Clayton argued that the district could not afford to hire another teacher while its reserves had fallen to $106,000, or well below the $180,000 the board had counted on retaining this year.

Larry Morago

Barbara Sanford

A hike in PG&E rates or gasoline prices could wipe out the surplus, Clayton warned, "and we may be forced to close the schools in March." He noted that the state's $7 billion surplus used to bail out schools and other programs since Proposition 13 would be replaced with a $1 billion deficit this year.

"We don't know what we're going to get," he said of future state funding for the district.

"Superintendents in the area are already talking about cutting all non-mandated programs," he said. "No music, no busing."

A repeat of the drastic teacher layoffs in the Carmel schools in 1979 may be necessary in 1981, Clayton warned.

Mrs. Gaver maintained that it would be poor planning to hire a teacher now when the position may not be retained for next year. She also questioned the veracity of disrupting classes by hiring a new teacher, re-shuffling classloads and removing the teacher's aides.

LAYOFF of the two aides was also sharply criticized by John Blinkenberg, president of Local Chapter 190 of the California School Employees Association.

CSEA represents classified employees, including bus drivers, secretaries, bookkeepers, custodians, some teacher's aides, library clerks and others who do not have teaching certificates.

Blinkenberg noted that CSEA is negotiating with the district for a 1980-81 contract; he said layoff of the aides was a matter of job security and it would not bode favorably at the bargaining table.

"Laying off aides violates the agreement in the 1979-80 contract," he said, noting that although the contract has expired, the district and union are honoring it during the negotiations for a new one.

Morale among classified employees was already at a hopeless low, he said, because of the district's stand in the negotiations. CSEA is asking for an 11.5 percent raise; the district has offered 7.2 percent. Last year classified employees settled for a 5.6 percent raise.

"We're beginning to believe the whole thing is pretty hopeless," Blinkenberg told the board.

After the meeting, he noted that administrators in the district, who receive much larger salaries than classified employees, had gotten an 8 percent raise.

"With our salaries, with inflation, it'd have to be 13 percent to be comparable," he said.

PARENTS among the 50 persons attending the meeting last week at Woods School called for hiring another teacher.

Their plea was similar to the request from other parents this year for reinstatement of six periods at Carmel Middle School. Parents had fervently maintained that a six-period day was vital for the education of their children; the board finally agreed to provide it at a cost of about $44,000.

Several parents last week noted that the cost of hiring a new teacher for Woods was very small compared to the district's more than $6 million budget, the $106,000 in reserves and cost of the 8 percent raise granted administrators.

Joe Parrish, a parent, said that parents recognized the district's financial problems. But he said Woods parents had been silent for too long in the face of programs being cut at the school. The combining of different grade levels in classes at Woods this year was the final straw, he said.

A teacher in Salinas, Parrish said he had taught combination classes. "It's the most frustrating and exhausting thing — and I had an aide," he said.

All classes at Woods now combine different grades, something that is intolerable for adequate teaching, Parrish said.

Larry Morago, who has two daughters at Woods, noted that adding one teacher would mean only one-third of the classes would combine grade levels. He disputed a report prepared by Superintendent William Rand which said the district is currently in deficit spending.

"You're not in deficit spending when you still have $106,000 in reserves," he insisted.

Parents at Woods had been promised that the school would have six teachers if enrollment climbed to more than 135 pupils, Morago said. Enrollment reached 142, but he said Rand informed parents that Woods needed to top 144 pupils before a sixth teacher would be hired.

The factor of only two students and the fact that Woods currently had the highest student-teacher ratio, 28-1, of any school in the district, was further evidence for a sixth teacher, several parents argued.

Trustee Ron Parravano, who moved that a sixth teacher be hired, said the issue was not a matter of money.

"We can recapture money from other parts of the budget," he said. "The teaching ratio is the major concern. We have an imbalance in the way we have staffed Woods School."

The aides would have to be eliminated, Parravano said, because they had been brought in as a stop-gap against hiring another teacher.

Six periods had been restored at Middle School and another teacher added to Captain Cooper Elementary in Big Sur, Parravano said, and he added that a sixth teacher at Woods was an educational necessity.

Board President Ken White and Trustee Barbara Sanford supported hiring another teacher.

Mrs. Sanford agreed that excess money could be found in the budget to fund the position.

White provided the necessary third vote for approval, although he lamented that the action would further erode the district's reserves.

"If we want to retain a $180,000 reserve," he said, "we're talking about cutting $70,000 in instructional supplies."

"That'll affect every student, not just Woods School."

Resigns Post

FRANCES R. GAVER, a veteran member of the Board of Education of the Carmel schools, announced last week that she will resign. A member of the board for 7½ years, she submitted a notice at the board's Oct. 28 meeting saying she intended to leave the post by spring because her husband, Donald P. Gaver, had been invited to be a guest professor at the Free University of Brussels. Mrs. Gaver explained that she and her husband would be gone for up to four months next spring.

Woods School will get program for day care

AN EXTENDED DAY-CARE program for Woods Elementary School was approved last week and was scheduled to start Monday, Nov. 3.

The Board of Education of the Carmel Unified School District gave its approval to the self-supporting program, with the district acting as coordinator for it and parents paying fees to fund it.

Woods parents had asked the board's support for an extended day-care program. They said the closest facility was at Bay School south of Carmel, too far and too inconvenient for them to take their children. Bay School day care was also ruled out because the bus that takes students to it from around the district is too large to go to Woods and on through the City of Carmel.

Cost of the program, which includes a coordinator, technical aide, instructional aide and utilities and supplies, will be $12,000. Fees will be $1.50 per student per hour, and $2 per student per hour for two children from the same family.

The cost and size of the program were based on an expected enrollment of 28.

Parents will be required to pay a $25 enrollment deposit, which will be credited toward the hourly fees.

The program was approved unanimously by the board, with the condition that it remain self-supporting.

Trustee Doyle Clayton requested that reports be submitted on the program's financial status. He said that at any time if the program does not remain self-supporting, it will be the board's prerogative to terminate it.

Kathy Nunnemaker, a Woods parent who spearheaded the effort for a day-care program, said she and other parents were soliciting donations from local businesses to help support the program. She requested that the funds raised not go into the district's general fund, but that they be put toward lowering the hourly fees.

A good man can be hard to find here

Ms. Kopp.

"During that time Wayland was born, and for three years we were as happy as a family can be. I was family oriented and really enjoyed it, so for the first three years I stayed home to raise my son."

Ms. Kopp said her relationship with Wayland's father began to disintegrate when they started growing in different directions.

"We just decided to go our different ways," she said. "We've remained close friends and he gives me some support, but not on a regular basis. He also has a close relationship with Wayland, sees him often and frequently takes him for weekends."

"You have to be honest with yourself. When I found myself alone with a child I really wasn't frightened because when I made the decision to live with a man without marriage and to have a child — I knew it might be that way in the future. And I knew that I could handle it."

Ms. Kopp said that although she could handle her situation, the fact remained that it wouldn't be easy, especially in the beginning.

"For the first two months I was practically living out of a suitcase and staying with friends in order to save money," said Ms. Kopp. "The same week I got the job at The General Store I also found a small house for Wayland and me. Wayland has his own room and an enclosed yard to play in."

Ms. Kopp said that one of the hardest things about returning to work was making the break with her son.

"It was emotionally hard on both of us because we had never been separated for any set periods of time," she said. "And that's when I realized that it's going to be hard."

Being young and full of energy, Ms. Kopp said she soon realized that going back to work was the best thing she could have done.

"I needed the stimulation of working and also meeting people," she said. "If you just sit home all you can do is think about what you're not doing and you begin to feel depressed and inadequate."

Ms. Kopp said that although her son came first, she soon discovered she needed a social life to remain a complete person.

"I don't hang out at bars, but I do enjoy dancing, dating and being with my friends," she said. "I work days, so a good part of my evenings and spare time is spent with my son. When I do go out I make certain that he has a competent baby sitter. I sometimes feel very guilty about leaving him, but I have to remember that I'm a person with needs of my own so I try to teach my son to respect that fact."

'Others might become man-haters and shut themselves off from any further hurt.'

On her days off from work, Ms. Kopp usually takes Wayland on outings to the beach or the park.

"We ride paddle boats, go to movies, have lunch together, all sorts of things," said Ms. Kopp.

"It's his time so we make the most of it. Then if I later go out with my friends I don't feel guilty."

"I'm very honest with Wayland and don't think that he feels at all insecure. He's very independent and I'm raising him that way on purpose. I'm not at his beck and call and, what he can do for himself, I let him do."

Ms. Kopp said she realizes her situation is not unique.

"Many women are successfully raising their children alone and are very happy with their situation," she said. "But there are a lot of women who feel very insecure if they don't have a man around. They may have been raised as a family unit and feel that a family means a husband as well as children. Many don't realize that they could function on their own."

One piece of advice Ms. Kopp has for women who may find themselves in a situation such as hers is not to sit home.

"Life just isn't going to happen if you just sit home and wait," she said.

"Many women who are on welfare or who have some type of income resist going back out into the work field. Others might become man-haters and shut themselves off from any further hurt. Aloneness can make you feel bitter towards life, so the sooner you create a circle of friends and get involved in working and fun activities—the happier you become as a person."

LETTING HER SON know that he is loved is very important to Ms. Kopp.

"I bring him little gifts, but I don't try to buy his love," she said.

"We always say 'I love you,' to each other — but these are honest, open feelings — not something we have to do."

WHEN IT COMES to dating, Ms. Kopp said it's not always easy to find the right man.

"Carmel isn't all that big and there are not a lot of single men in my age bracket," she said.

"Some men also shy away from a woman who has a child because they really don't want to get involved. They're usually very open and honest about it so there isn't time for hard feelings to develop. I let them know right off the top that I have a child — there would be nothing so bad as feeling so desperate that you would feel you had to hide your child."

Ms. Kopp said that she doesn't feel any major lacks in her life right now and that she's not "out looking for a man." She said she would love to travel more and is planning to return to school to prepare herself to work with young children in a professional way.

As to having more children of her own, she said:

"I'm not living that far in the future. I'm a realist and take life as it is and work with it. The end results really depend on the individual person."

"Happiness isn't something that happens tomorrow. It's right now, today."

He finds nice women to date in Carmel

choice, she spends every other week with her father.

"There are three people living in this house," said Cordan. "We're totally independent of each other, but totally united in a bond of love. The children are here because they want to be."

In discussing his relationship with his son, Cordan said they do everything — and nothing — together. "We never discuss our dates," he said. "We're more like buddies than father and son, but I'm there as a father when and if he needs me. And he does come to me on those rare occasions when he can't handle something."

Cordan recalled one of those times.

"Like all 17-year-old boys he enjoys his friends and cars," said Cordan. "He was driving a friend's car and ran a stop sign and was stopped by a policeman. There was a can of unopened beer in the back seat so he was charged. He called me from the police station at midnight — and I was there in two minutes."

Cordan, who is a realtor associate with Garden Court Realty in Carmel, said he considers his children to be very well adjusted. His son is a senior at Robert Louis Stevenson in Pebble Beach and is involved in radio and sports. He is head of the sports broadcasting division of radio station KPBS at the school.

Daughter Holly also attends RLS and, according to her father, is a very good student.

Recently, Cordan saw his daughter Muffin for the first time in more than eight years.

"When I agreed to let her live with her mother I also agreed that her mother's husband could adopt her," said Cordan.

"I knew that when she was ready to see me she would come and visit. She's the same age as Holly and they had a wonderful time. When we saw each other it was as if she had never been away."

Cordan is not bashful when he talks about children, especially boys, needing their fathers on a full-time basis.

"The most important thing for a boy between the ages of 10 and 18 is that he have a male image to emulate his life after, or to at least guide him," said Cordan.

"During the past seven years I've tried to teach Andy what it is to be a man — at least what I think it is to be a man. I've taught him to live an honorable life and to be honest with himself. I tell him that it doesn't matter what he does as long as he does his best — and then if he fails, so what?"

Household chores are shared by father and children in the Cordan home.

"Andy is head chef and I'm a great dish washer," said Cordan, adding that he gives the house a good once-a-week cleaning while the children care for their own rooms.

HIS TWO BROKEN marriages have not prejudiced him against women, said Cordan.

"Marriage has to be worked at 24 hours a day and a broken marriage is never one person's fault," he said.

"The most important thing I've learned in

'As for another marriage, Cordan said that if the right woman came along he probably would remarry.'

my relationships with women whether in marriage or dating is never to take the other person for granted."

Cordan said he has had no trouble finding nice women in Carmel to date.

"I love women," he said. "I'm comfortable around them and enjoy being with them and I have a great deal of respect for women in general."

"I usually limit my dating to week nights because I spend weekends with my children. And I'm very selective about the women I do date. If I don't really enjoy being with someone, even if it's just taking a walk on the beach, then I prefer not to date. Right now I would settle for a happy relationship with no strings and no ties."

As for another marriage, Cordan said that if the right woman came along he probably would remarry.

"But make no doubt about it," he added. "She really would have to be the 'right woman.'"

Is A Problem Drinker Making Life Unbearable For You?

• Read Every Word

If a problem drinker is making life unbearable, you alone know what you've suffered. And you alone can do something about it. Remember... you can help the problem drinker even if he or she doesn't want help.

• What Not to Do

Don't accuse — he or she will never admit to drinking too much. Don't try to reason with the problem drinker. Alcohol abusers are seriously ill, and the illness affects the mind as well as the body.

• What You Can Do

The best thing (and really the only thing) you can do for problem drinkers is to get them to professional help. Fast. The CareUnit Program in your local hospital offers a unique program that works. We prove it every day. In a few weeks, the problem drinker can look forward to resuming a useful and productive place in society. And you can look forward to a happy, normal life once again.

• How to Begin

Begin by calling your local CareUnit immediately, and talk to a staff counselor. You alone can help the alcoholic. Call now — before your situation gets even worse!

Happiness is a warm Shih Tzu

By TERRI LEE ROBBE

Society waits uniform'd, and is for a while between things ended and things begun.

Walt Whitman

AND THAT'S THE WAY it's been the past few days — many exciting social events a memory now — while others are on the edge of happening.

But then travel is always in — and so is a new resident at Sandy Swain's home.

FURRY SAM

Happiness is a bit of fur called Sam!

The world is a much brighter place for Marieta "Sandy" Swain — all because a little three-month-old lady named Sam has found a home with Sandy. Sam is a little Shih Tzu and she's managed to push back the dark clouds of sorrow and give Sandy's world a golden glow.

Just recently Sandy lost her beloved Twigger, a 13-year-old Shih Tzu, to illness.

"I brooded for about a month and I finally realized that I couldn't bring her back," said Sandy. "Sam isn't a replacement for Twigger, but she's certainly bringing happiness into my life."

Sandy is also happy because she's recently dropped 50 pounds — "with another 30 to go," she said. And she credits much of the loss to her aerobic dance classes given three times a week in Carmel by Pepper James.

"It's really a bit hard to explain, but it works on the heart beat — actually the entire body," said Sandy. "Lots of local women are taking the classes and we're in agreement that it's great — and makes us feel great."

Sandy's friend (and co-founder of their Lamplighter School in Texas) Natalie Murray is in Dallas for a month. Natalie, who is on the Carmel Cultural Commission, is also a member of the Education Advisory Council in Dallas — so she's representing both herself and Sandy.

"I just couldn't leave the new puppy yet," said Sandy, "so Natalie is doing both our jobs."

Congratulations, Sandy and Sam!

A TRIP TO RIO

With rapid air-travel, the world seems to be getting smaller every day — and Carmelites are managing to explore every little nook and cranny of it.

Off to South America are Bill and Gerry McFall and daughter, Kathy — and the entire family was in a delightful mood of excitement as they prepared for their two-month people, teaching cooking and nutrition.

Gerry said that Julie has adjusted very well to the very primitive conditions of the village, which has no running water or electricity and is 17 miles from the nearest paved road. Julie, who is fluent in Spanish, is determined to learn the Guaranis language, and after only a few months is communicating in the native language very well.

From Paraguay, Bill, Gerry and Kathy will visit various areas of Peru including Lima and Cuzco, and then on to Machupicchu, the lost city of the Incas.

Bill, a building contractor, is interested in the architecture, while Gerry, owner of Village Artistry in Carmel, plans to spend much of her time looking for art to bring home.

This is the McFalls' first trip to the area and, according to Gerry, it will be late spring everywhere they go. "The last report was that it was 90 degrees in Rio, so you can bet we'll be spending lots of time at the beach," said Gerry.

Hurry home, happy travelers!

GOTHAM GALA

New York, N.Y. — what a fabulous town!

Two Carmelites in complete agreement with that are Frank Giordano and Bill Kren (of Mr. Frank's Beauty Salon) who just recently returned home after a two-week vacation in the city of bright lights.

Bill, who lived in New York for 10 years, knew his way around the city, so the two vacationers hit a lot of the high spots including a few Broadway shows — West Side Story, Mornings at Seven, Children of a Lesser God and Barnum.

Frank said the restaurant he most enjoyed was the five-star French restaurant, Lutece, where he absolutely stuffed himself with salmon in a crust, stuffed saddle of veal, frozen raspberry soufflé and other good edibles. Another very "in" eatery, according to Frank and Bill, is Romeo Salta — Italian!

Another high spot on their agenda was Regines — "for looking," said Frank, "not dancing."

Frank and Bill also checked out the New York fashions, including hair styles. "Most styles now have the natural look," said Frank — "short, neat, feminine and curly with a forward-type full bang."

"Pants for women are very much in this season," said Frank, "especially those very narrow from the knees down, but fuller on top — and worn with very high heels."

"There's a strong influence of quilted clothing in the majority of the stores. Coats and jackets are all down filled — with the Samuri Japanese cut to the shoulders. The softer items are more Chinese."

The styles in furs are fabulous this season, according to Frank. "They're doing more pattern things like herringbone

The McFalls' other daughter, Julie, is with the Peace Corps in Paraguay and having a bit of time off from her duties, she plans to meet up with her family in Rio and join in the vacation.

From Rio the travelers will go to Iguassu Fall (between Brazil and Argentina) and then on to Buenos Aires, where they will visit with Carmelites Capt. Paul and Carol Barrish.

Paul, a Navy attache, has been stationed in Buenos Aires 2½ years — but the family returns to their Carmel home each year for a month-long visit. They happily report that they will be returning permanently this coming January.

From Buenos Aires, the McFalls will go to Paraguay and spend a few days sightseeing while Julie returns to her camp. After three months' training, Julie was sent to a Guaranis Indian village on a two-year assignment. She works with young choice, she spends every other week with her father.

He finds nice women to date in Carmel

"There are three people living in this house," said Cordan. "We're totally independent of each other, but totally united in a bond of love. The children are here because they want to be."

In discussing his relationship with his son, Cordan said they do everything — and nothing — together. "We never discuss our dates," he said. "We're more like buddies than father and son, but I'm there as a father when and if he needs me. And he does come to me on those rare occasions when he can't handle something."

Cordan recalled one of those times.

"Like all 17-year-old boys he enjoys his friends and cars," said Cordan. "He was driving a friend's car and ran a stop sign and was stopped by a policeman. There was a can of unopened beer in the back seat so he was charged. He called me from the police station at midnight — and I was there in two minutes."

Cordan, who is a realtor associate with Garden Court Realty in Carmel, said he considers his children to be very well adjusted. His son is a senior at Robert Louis Stevenson in Pebble Beach and is involved in radio and sports. He is head of the sports broadcasting division of radio station KPBS at the school.

Daughter Holly also attends RLS and, according to her father, is a very good student.

Recently, Cordan saw his daughter Muffin for the first time in more than eight years.

"When I agreed to let her live with her mother I also agreed that her mother's husband could adopt her," said Cordan.

"I knew that when she was ready to see me she would come and visit. She's the same age as Holly and they had a wonderful time. When we saw each other it was as if she had never been away."

Cordan is not bashful when he talks about children, especially boys, needing their fathers on a full-time basis.

"The most important thing for a boy between the ages of 10 and 18 is that he have a male image to emulate his life after, or to at least guide him," said Cordan.

"During the past seven years I've tried to teach Andy what it is to be a man — at least what I think it is to be a man. I've taught him to live an honorable life and to be honest with himself. I tell him that it doesn't matter what he does as long as he does his best — and then if he fails, so what?"

Household chores are shared by father and children in the Cordan home.

"Andy is head chef and I'm a great dish washer," said Cordan, adding that he gives the house a good once-a-week cleaning while the children care for their own rooms.

HIS TWO BROKEN marriages have not prejudiced him against women, said Cordan.

"Marriage has to be worked at 24 hours a day and a broken marriage is never one person's fault," he said.

"The most important thing I've learned in

'As for another marriage, Cordan said that if the right woman came along he probably would remarry.'

my relationships with women whether in marriage or dating is never to take the other person for granted."

Cordan said he has had no trouble finding nice women in Carmel to date.

"I love women," he said. "I'm comfortable around them and enjoy being with them and I have a great deal of respect for women in general."

"I usually limit my dating to week nights because I spend weekends with my children. And I'm very selective about the women I do date. If I don't really enjoy being with someone, even if it's just taking a walk on the beach, then I prefer not to date. Right now I would settle for a happy relationship with no strings and no ties."

As for another marriage, Cordan said that if the right woman came along he probably would remarry.

"But make no doubt about it," he added. "She really would have to be the 'right woman.'"

Is A Problem Drinker Making Life Unbearable For You?

• Read Every Word

If a problem drinker is making life unbearable, you alone know what you've suffered. And you alone can do something about it. Remember... you can help the problem drinker even if he or she doesn't want help.

• What Not to Do

Don't accuse — he or she will never admit to drinking too much. Don't try to reason with the problem drinker. Alcohol abusers are seriously ill, and the illness affects the mind as well as the body.

• What You Can Do

The best thing (and really the only thing) you can do for problem drinkers is to get them to professional help. Fast. The CareUnit Program in your local hospital offers a unique program that works. We prove it every day. In a few weeks, the problem drinker can look forward to resuming a useful and productive place in society. And you can look forward to a happy, normal life once again.

• How to Begin

Begin by calling your local CareUnit immediately, and talk to a staff counselor. You alone can help the alcoholic. Call now — before your situation gets even worse!

Happiness is a warm Shih Tzu

By TERRI LEE ROBBE

Society waits uniform'd, and is for a while between things ended and things begun.

Walt Whitman

AND THAT'S THE WAY it's been the past few days — many exciting social events a memory now — while others are on the edge of happening.

But then travel is always in — and so is a new resident at Sandy Swain's home.

FURRY SAM

Happiness is a bit of fur called Sam!

The world is a much brighter place for Marieta "Sandy" Swain — all because a little three-month-old lady named Sam has found a home with Sandy. Sam is a little Shih Tzu and she's managed to push back the dark clouds of sorrow and give Sandy's world a golden glow.

Just recently Sandy lost her beloved Twigger, a 13-year-old Shih Tzu, to illness.

"I brooded for about a month and I finally realized that I couldn't bring her back," said Sandy. "Sam isn't a replacement for Twigger, but she's certainly bringing happiness into my life."

Sandy is also happy because she's recently dropped 50 pounds — "with another 30 to go," she said. And she credits much of the loss to her aerobic dance classes given three times a week in Carmel by Pepper James.

"It's really a bit hard to explain, but it works on the heart beat — actually the entire body," said Sandy. "Lots of local women are taking the classes and we're in agreement that it's great — and makes us feel great."

Sandy's friend (and co-founder of their Lamplighter School in Texas) Natalie Murray is in Dallas for a month. Natalie, who is on the Carmel Cultural Commission, is also a member of the Education Advisory Council in Dallas — so she's representing both herself and Sandy.

"I just couldn't leave the new puppy yet," said Sandy, "so Natalie is doing both our jobs."

Congratulations, Sandy and Sam!

AUSTRIA, TOO

Carmelites certainly do get around!

For instance, Bob and Jane McFarren, who love to travel, decided to head to Austria — and stay for three to four months.

Bob, who was in a ski troop during WWII, still loves to ski and is planning to spend lots of time on the slopes. He's also planning to put his artistic talents to work and paint some of the beautiful scenery.

The couple has taken an apartment in the little village of St. Gilgen, just outside Salzburg.

Bob's work is shown exclusively at The Artist's Gallery here in Carmel, so we can look for some exciting new paintings when the couple returns home sometime in February.

WINE AND FOOD SOCIETY

The 94th annual dinner of The International Wine and Food Society of the Monterey Peninsula held Oct. 26 was a very successful affair.

About 50 people attended the dinner, which began with a champagne and Brie cheese reception at the Albert Railtons' home in Monterey. Dinner was at the Old Europe Restaurant in Pacific Grove.

The organization began in this area in 1956. Charter members included the affair included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stanton, Mrs. Alfred Fry and Barbara Burdick.

Some of those attending from the Carmel-Pebble Beach area included Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Keene, Mrs. Elzo Van Dellen, Dr. and Mrs. John Rhoads, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Burney Threadgill, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Holst, Mrs. Archibald Kirkland, Dr. and Mrs. Alvin Hileman, Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Tainter and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Lisser.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hopper, John Mahony of Big Sur and his daughter, Ann Mahony, who was visiting from the Los Angeles area, Dr. Gene England, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Vitt, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Bungay, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murphy, Barbara Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Meyer and Nell Gnesa.

ASHLEY ANNE BALL

The new addition at the Carmel home of Jeffrey and Carla Ball is Miss Ashley Anne, born at Community Hospital at 1:53 p.m., Oct. 8.

Baby Ashley weighed in at eight pounds even and was 21 inches long. She has brown hair and grayish-blue eyes.

Her dad is a pilot with Republic Airlines and her mother is a teacher at Carmel Middle School.

Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ball of New York. Her maternal grandparents are Ross Buell of San Francisco and Mrs. Lovetta Buell of Thousand Oaks.

Seven-year-old Nikki, the Balls' pet Samoyed, has accepted the new addition with an open heart and enjoys sleeping by little Ashley's crib. She also goes for help if Ashley so much as moves.

"She's our first child so we're going through a period of adjustment right now," said Mrs. Ball. "She's had a lot of visitors, and in January we plan to take her to New York to see her grandparents. That will be our last vacation before I return to teaching on Jan. 26."

Welcome, Ashley Anne!

SUR KEATH ALAN MOON

Sur Keath Alan Moon isn't fooling around when it comes to getting out and enjoying this big beautiful world he was recently born into — he's already experienced a hiking trip with his parents, Scott and Maggie Moon, in Arroyo Seco and, according to his mom, he was fantastic!

Baby Sur arrived at Community Hospital at 2:18 p.m. Oct. 7. He weighed eight pounds, six ounces and was 21 inches long. He has lots of brown hair and big brown eyes.

His paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moon of Fairborn, Ohio. His maternal grandmother is Mrs. Dorothy McDermid of Carmel.

Baby Sur's dad is a musician and his mom manages the Cornucopia Natural Food Store in The Barnyard.

"He's a great little baby and a Libra," said his mom. "He was born via natural childbirth, so dad has been in on everything except diaper changing — he hurt his hand the day Sur was born so he has a good excuse."

Grandmother Moon flew out from Ohio to help show the new mother how to care for baby Sur, and his mother's aunt, Jean Turner, is visiting from Michigan to help out for a few more weeks.

"He's a beautiful experience and we love him," said his mom. "In fact, he's a great baby!"

Welcome to the world, Sur!

Recreation group studies city's needs

YOUNGSTERS age 4 to seniors of 80 were discussed at the first meeting of the Recreation Commission Saturday, Nov. 1.

Carmel Mayor Barney Laiolo said nearly 20 people representing organizations and acting as individuals met to discuss recreation available in Carmel.

"We have the nucleus of a good group of interested people who are interested in participating," he said.

City Administrator Doug Peterson said an informal steering committee will meet weekly through November to discuss the facilities available in the city and Carmel schools.

Laiolo noted that the city owns buildings, including the Boy Scout House, that could be the center of various activities.

The Cherry Foundation and Women's Club were also considered at the meeting, he said.

The Carmel High School pool may be used after school hours by older people in the future, he said.

Sunset Center Director Richard Tyler and Dan Yurkovich of the Carmel school district will head a committee to study the current use of facilities.

Housing ordinance is adopted; units for poor mandatory, but . . .

IN THE NICK OF TIME, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors adopted an ordinance to provide for low- and moderate-income housing.

Pressed by a deadline imposed by the state Office of Planning and Research (OPR), the supervisors adopted the ordinance last week that will lay unprecedented requirements on developers in the county.

The ordinance, approved by a 4-1 vote, requires developers to contribute 15 percent of a subdivision's units or lots for low- and moderate-income families. The ordinance becomes effective in 30 days.

OPR had set Dec. 1 for the county to have an ordinance implemented to satisfy state guidelines. The deadline was established as a condition of a second, year-long extension granted by OPR to the county to revise its General Plan.

The county is in the second year of a three-year program to revise the General Plan; the housing ordinance will become a part of that revised plan.

The OPR extension grants the county protection from lawsuits against the General Plan while it is being corrected. If the housing ordinance had not been adopted, the county faced losing the extension.

The ordinance grants alternatives for developers who do not wish to include low- and moderate-income units in their projects.

It provides for building the units at another site, or allows the developer to contribute land to the county on which low- and moderate-income units could be built.

The value of the contribution would have to be equivalent to 15 percent of the basic subdivision.

Developers will be permitted to pay a fee only in cases of extreme hardship, and where the project is four or more units.

On projects of fewer than five units or lots, the developer can pay a $1,000 fee for each unit or lot.

Owner-occupied, single-family homes are exempt from the ordinance.

Northern California Savings introduces a change in the way you do banking. Checking accounts that pay interest. You'll get everything you've gotten from your checking account at the bank . . . except the long lines and impersonal service. And you'll get something the bank never gave you, even though you deserved it: a full 5 1/4% interest with a 5.47% annual yield.

Free personalized checks for the life of your account!

Open an NCS Checking With Interest Account before January 1, 1981 and qualify for our Lifetime Account. Just bring in your bank check for $500 or more prior to January 1, and we'll mail you a genuine leather checkbook cover plus free personalized checks for as long as you keep your account with us.

Please note that this offer applies only to funds not currently on deposit at NCS. And though federal law won't allow you to write checks until January 1, 1981, money deposited in advance will earn a hefty 5 1/2% interest. Upon account activation, funds will be automatically transferred to your 5 1/4% Checking With Interest Account.

Another meeting tonight

Part of coastal plan OK'd

By STEVE HELLMAN

THE CITIZENS ADVISORY Committee for the Local Coastal Program covering the Carmel area has adopted its draft land-use element.

Approval of the land use element, the major segment of the LCP, came during the committee's meeting Friday, Oct. 30. Other elements, including the important recreation segment, will be considered at future meetings beginning at 7:30 p.m. every Thursday through November at Carmel City Hall.

The county Board of Supervisors, meanwhile, has granted the committee an additional 30 days in which to complete its segments and comment on the county staff version for the LCP. The combined draft LCP will then be reviewed at public hearings conducted by the county Planning Commission and the supervisors.

Final approval comes from the California Coastal Commission, at which time the LCP will serve as the county's guideline for land use, public access and conservation decisions in the unincorporated area around Carmel, including the picturesque Carmel Highlands.

The committee, while approving its draft land-use segment, decided to leave out specific housing density figures for further discussion.

The county planning staff has recommended more restrictive densities than those proposed by the committee. The county also proposes stronger restrictions on development of the Odello family land east of Highway 1 and south of the Carmel River.

The Odellos want to build 97 condominiums, a 200-unit hotel and farmers market on the 134 acres of agricultural land. The land is considered prime agricultural by the county.

Susan Hilinski of the county planning staff has also emphasized that the Odello land lies within the 100-year floodplain, another major obstacle to development on it.

"A mix of residential and visitor-serving uses at the eastern end of the Odello East may be permissible, subject to resolution of the flood hazard problem," according to the county's proposed land-use segment.

The committee's land-use segment suggests that the Odellos' proposed development is permissible so long as it is kept from view of Highway 1, an overriding factor for development within the LCP area.

Floodplain policies adopted by the committee could prevent major development on the Odello land. The draft policies include restrictions on building new dikes, among others, although the Odellos already have a dike and the policies suggest that improvements to it would be permitted.

DENSITIES proposed by the county staff would allow 144 more residential units and 100 lodge or visitor-serving units in the LCP area.

The committee has proposed allowing more than 300 new units.

The densities proposed by the county are: area north of San Jose Creek, one unit per 40 acres (23 units); the flatlands, one unit per 10 acres (33 residential units, 100 lodge units); intermediate terrain, one unit per 40 acres (66 units); uplands, one unit per 80 acres (22 units), and for the prime agricultural land east of Highway 1, a special treatment district with densities to be determined later.

Harold Seyferth, chairman of the committee, suggested that the issue of densities be postponed for discussion until the next meeting. His suggestion was made in the interest of saving time and getting as much progress as possible on the committee's unadopted segments.

'He declared that it would circumvent the citizen participation and work of the committee.'

Ray Lamb of the county Planning Department informed the committee at the beginning of last week's meeting that it had to have all its elements approved and submitted by the following week or forego having them printed and officially included in the draft LCP.

The county intended to print the draft document the end of the following week (Nov. 7), whether or not the committee had submitted all of its segments, Lamb said.

Asked why the impossible deadline was being put on the committee, Lamb said it was a result of the supervisors' order that the draft LCPs be ready for their review by late November.

Seyferth, backed by several of the committee members, firmly protested the deadline. He declared that it would circumvent the citizen participation and work of the committee.

Lamb indicated that the committee could submit its documents as supplementary comment when the LCP comes before the commission.

But Seyferth was adamant that the county not bypass the committee's work, which had been drawn out over the past year.

"Stuffing these things all in a funnel doesn't follow the letter of the law," he charged.

Seyferth said in an interview the next day that he had contacted Supervisor Sam Farr, whom he said promised that the committee would have 30 more days to complete its work.

"The biggest little fashion shop in Carmel"

Her fond memories of Carmel go back to 1915

By TERRI LEE ROBBE

MAI GUICHARD McGRURY OPENED the door to what she called her cellar — crawled under the house and rummaged through a big box of apples she had recently picked at her ranch in Hollister.

Dropping some of the choice fruit in a paper bag, she practically scampered back up the steps and into the house, keeping the conversation going throughout.

"It's really simple," said Mrs. McGrury. "Don't ponder on things too much — stay near the earth because the earth is a healer — and if you feel depressed, go for a walk — look at nature. If you're going to be part of life you have to be aware of what it's all about."

At 87 years of age, Mai McGrury is the picture of health. She drives her car, works in her garden, walks to town daily for the mail, does a bit of painting around the house and spends a lot of time in her kitchen cooking.

One of 14 children, Mrs. McGrury was born in New Orleans. At age 2 she moved to California with her parents and settled in a small town near Santa Cruz. She later attended San Jose College and received her teaching credentials.

In 1915 she came to Carmel to help her sister, Stella, in her dry goods store, but soon found herself working as a substitute teacher at Sunset School.

"With the exception of Stella, all the girls in our family became teachers or accountants," said Mrs. McGrury. "Stella loved sewing so she was determined to become a tailoress."

Mrs. McGrury said that in those days it was impossible to buy ready-made clothing that fit well, so her sister was invited to come to Carmel and sew for Mrs. Will Irving and Mrs. Jimmy Hopper.

"Mrs. Hopper had many friends here so she suggested that Stella should move here and open a shop," said Mrs. McGrury. "Stella opened a little dry goods store and continued with her sewing."

Mrs. McGrury had been teaching in King City for two years when her sister wrote asking her to come to Carmel to help with the store.

"After a year of helping with the store I decided I needed to go back to teaching," said Mrs. McGrury. "I started as a substitute, and then in 1919 I took a position as a full-time teacher."

One of Mrs. McGrury's students that year was retired Judge Gordon Campbell.

"His brother, John, started with me, but Gordon was already in the second grade when I became his teacher," said Mrs. McGrury. "Gordon was a student who never gave up. If he couldn't get something right away he'd just keep at it until he did."

Mrs. McGrury has fond memories of Campbell, especially the time he tried to help entertain her 6-year-old nephew, Cary.

"GORDON was in the fifth grade and he thought he would be nice to Cary and take him to play football," she said. "Gordon threw the ball pretty hard, and another youngster standing nearby saw that the ball was going to hit Cary so he ran in to help. They all went down together — Cary, the helping friend and the ball. Gordon felt really bad about it."

Other Carmelites who were students of Mrs. McGrury are

Mai Guichard McGrury

Glenn and Dale Leidig, Helen Turner (now Mrs. Gene Ricketts), Waldo Hicks, Harry Gien and Raymond Narvaez.

"She was the best teacher I ever had," said Glenn Leidig. "She wasn't as strict as many teachers. She never spanked me and she jumped me from the third to the fourth grade. I remember her as a very young and beautiful girl."

Campbell said he couldn't remember that far back. "I do know that she's completely ageless," he said. "The years just don't seem to change her."

Mrs. McGrury recalled that Dale Leidig "was a little chap." "Before he started school he would have his breakfast and then run to the beach to play," said Mrs. McGrury. "After he started school he did the same thing. At recess Dale would disappear to the beach and I wouldn't see him again until late afternoon. He couldn't understand that he was doing something wrong."

Mrs. McGrury said that she didn't have the heart to spank Dale, so she decided to tell him that his legs were sick because they kept running away.

"I wrapped his little legs in sheets and he was so embarrassed that when he went home he wouldn't go into dinner," said Mrs. McGrury. "It was better than a spanking and it worked."

In 1922 Mrs. McGrury gave up teaching to marry her college sweetheart, James McGrury.

"He frequently came to San Jose to visit his cousins and that's when I met him," said Mrs. McGrury. "My first teaching job was near Hollister and that's where Jim had a cattle and grain ranch. In those days it was proper for the neighbors to visit the new teacher — and Jim came to visit."

In 1923 the couple's only child, Ellen Pearl, was born and for the next four years they were content to live on the ranch.

In 1927 Mr. McGrury's eyesight went bad so the family decided to move to Carmel and buy a small business.

"We bought Stella's business and turned it into McGrury's General Merchandise," said Mrs. McGrury. "We carried dry goods, stationery, shoes — we had the first tennis shoes ever sold in Carmel, a little bit of everything."

Then came the Depression, but the McGrurys managed to hang on to their store. "If I hadn't had a Scotchman for a husband we'd never have made it," said Mrs. McGrury.

The store was on the corner of Dolores and Ocean where Fortier's Drug Store now stands. When George Fortier took over the building, the McGrurys bought a piece of property on Dolores and Sixth and put up their own building. The McGrurys ran the store until they retired in 1944.

"We kept the property but sold the business," said Mrs. McGrury. "After three operations on his eyes, Jim was able to drive a little and read and write again. We decided to travel and see some of the beautiful things made by nature."

Their travels took them to such places as Alaska, Canada, the Mexican border, national parks and the Grand Canyon.

Mr. McGrury died in 1976 at age 94.

Mrs. McGrury's daughter graduated from San Jose University in 1946 and, like her mother, became a teacher. Her two sons visit their grandmother as often as possible.

With the exception of a few angina pains, she said she rarely has a bad day and just recently started wearing reading glasses.

She credits her longevity to good living.

"I don't drink or smoke and I'm not a big eater," she said. "I don't have any problems staying busy. I take care of the house and the property, including the old ranch in Hollister."

And that reminded her — tomorrow she would have to drive to the ranch to pick more apples.

HANDSHAKES DON'T COUNT

Many business agreements have been sealed with a "handshake" and enforced in the courts. But when it comes to the world of Real Estate you cannot — and should not — rely on oral promises. In fact, legislation in each of the 50 states specifically requires that all agreements and conditions relative to the sale of real estate specifically be in writing.

In real estate, oral promises or conditions have little standing. If they are not contained in writing within the agreement of sale, or on other papers relating to the transaction, they are not binding. In fact, some agreements of sale provide a clause to the effect that all oral statements relative to the transaction made prior to the signing of the written agreement are invalid.

The only way to put any teeth into oral promises, is to insist that everything which you think is significant be put in writing.

Symphony Guild domino tournament is Saturday

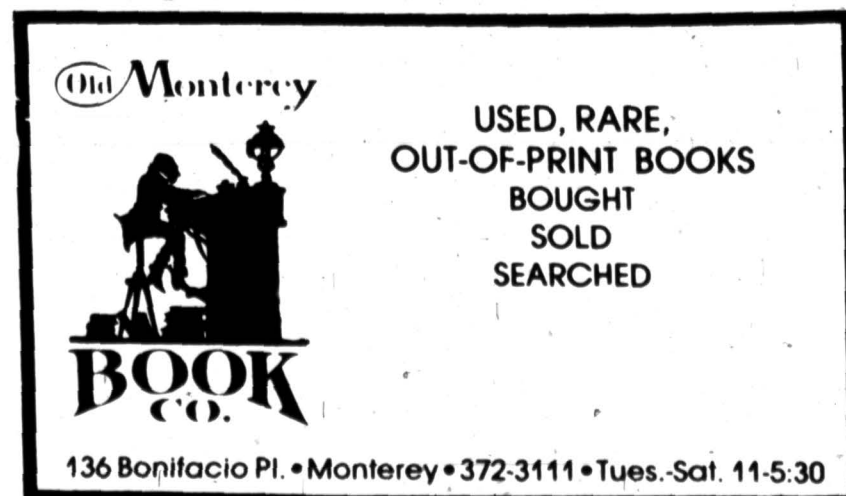

The 17th annual Golden Domino Tournament of the Monterey County Symphony Guild is slated for Saturday, Nov. 8 at 9:30 a.m. at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club in Pebble Beach.

Entry fee is $35 per couple, which includes lunch at the club. Many prizes, as well as cash prizes for the winning team, will be awarded.

A dinner for all contestants will be served Friday, Nov. 7 at Rancho Canada Golf Club, Carmel Valley Road, Carmel Valley. No-host cocktails will be offered at 7 p.m., and dinner will be at 8 p.m. Cost for the dinner is $10 per person.

Everyone is welcome to enter. For further information, phone 624-2750 or 373-6392.

Recycling plant hearing due

THE FATE of the refuse and recycling station in Carmel Valley Village will be considered by the Monterey County Planning Commission Nov. 26.

The commission will conduct a public hearing to decide whether to revoke or amend the use permit for the controversial station.

Residents have complained about odor and noise from the station on Pilot Road; they want it closed.

Owner James Carroll has asked the commission to amend the use permit to allow more hours of operation, overnight storage of refuse and loading and unloading on Mondays.

The county granted a use permit in 1978 for the outdoor operation, which collects trash from the area, compacts it and trucks it to county dump sites. The use permit was renewed last May.

In deciding to schedule a public hearing on the station, the commission noted that the objections raised by residents may warrant closing it.

Chairman Joseph Sullivan noted last week that the station was intended to be as unobtrusive as possible, while Carroll's request would make it more obtrusive.

The county has warned Carroll that he had been violating conditions of the use permit, which prohibits operation on Mondays, hauling after 1 p.m. and overnight storage of trash.

CONVENTIONS BYPASS CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA

Through some strange paradox, Carmel, the haven of summer visitors, has escaped all conventions.

Yet it doesn't seem a paradox. Carmel is too quiet for those who attend conventions. After 9 o'clock at night, but few people remain on the streets.

Fortunately Carmel is just what a convention city should not be like. There is no chamber of commerce here to greet the delegates, the mayor is out fishing for abalones and has no time to make welcoming addresses.

There are only art galleries and a few quaint shops in the business section. But who attending a convention wants to see paintings or quaint shops? Then, another thing, the delegates could never feel at ease in Carmel. The sardonic grins on the residents as they see the colorful badges pinned on the delegates would be too much.

CARMEL CHARACTERS

Carmel has its own long distance fliers. Mrs. Gregory Illanes recently made a nonstop flight from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean — across Panama!

Mary Austin, one of the first residents of Carmel in the days before she became a noted author, used to write ideas for stories on little slips of paper which she kept rolled up like cigarettes and hid them in various places about the house.

J.F. Devendorf established another town before he started Carmel. It was Morgan Hill, in Santa Clara county. He'll build another town for anyone who wants to disprove this.

COUNCIL REJECTS GAS STATION

An overflow crowd of concerned Carmelites cheered a unanimous decision by the City Council last night to spurn Mobil Oil Company's plans to build another gas station in Carmel.

Spurred by an overwhelming display of solid opposition from the community, the Council reversed a decision by the Planning Commission which had previously granted a use permit for Carmel's eleventh gas station on the southwest corner of Junipero and Fifth.

The oil company wheeled out one of its big guns in its last ditch attempt to overcome public opinion, to no avail. Thad Sheridan, Mobil's sales manager for the San Francisco District, restated Mobil's intention to build a facility "in keeping with the exceptionally unique character of Carmel." But his was the lone voice at the meeting.

Lover of photos

Dear Editor:

This is a long-overdue letter to tell you how much my husband, Thomas McGlynn, and I enjoy the terrific photographs which Alan McEwen takes for the Pine Cone.

With the "Great Sand Castle Contest" he achieved a high — for diversification of subject matter, for sensitive compositions, for catching the essence of one of Carmel's most exciting (and loved) traditions.

We have noted with interest the formation of a Carmel Historical Society, long the dream of all who really treasure Carmel and her contribution to the world of the arts. We hope that the society will consider collecting Alan McEwen's photographs as a kind of archive of Carmel history-in-the-making.

Valley reflections

Dear Editor:

What an inspiration! Somebody in the county offices has given us a really good thing: those marvelous reflecting buttons all along the Carmel Valley Road (lighted up by our own headlights and then fading away after we pass).

They will be great during the winter nights, too, when those other guides — the white lines — tend to disappear in mud and water.

Radioactive flights

Dear Editor:

Travelers beware! Many unsuspecting air passengers are sharing their flights with radioactive freight. Yes, within the United States over one million nuclear shipments went by air last year and there'll be more next year.

Congress may soon spell out stricter rules, requiring airlines to check nuclear cargoes for radiation levels with geiger counters before placing them aboard aircrafts. These tougher controls are fine as a stopgap measure for protecting cargo handlers from contamination, but what about the general public?

Pregnant women, young children, older people and tourists who've exceeded their annual radiation budget should have flights free of nuclear loads.

Working on recreation

By BARNEY LAIOLO

I AM WRITING this week's article on Halloween, the day before we will be having our first meeting with interested parties to discuss the city's recreation program.

At least sixteen people have agreed to attend to discuss the many facets of this program and how each will fit into the various current operations.

Attending the meeting will be representatives from the Barracuda Swim Club, Boosters Club of Carmel High School, Carmel Baseball League, Carmel Foundation, Carmel High School, Carmel Middle School, Carmel Mission, Carmel River School, Carmel Woods School, Carmel Youth Center, Monterey Peninsula College and YMCA, and the following people: Greg Cellitti, Greg D'Ambrosio, George DuBettis from Sunset Center Gymnasium, Police Chief Bill Ellis, City Administrator Doug Peterson, Doug Rachele, Sunset Center Director Richard Tyler, Ken White and Mary Wiley. Hopefully, a few others will also be there.

This first meeting will be a rap session to discuss recreation in general and to separate the representatives into groups with regard to age factors. Hopefully, we will be able to select chairmen who will represent these groups and they in turn will set up their committees to work with them.

mayor's report

We will discuss the various city-owned facilities and other recreational establishments in order to coordinate the various activities. We will be talking about Forest Hill Park, Sunset Gym, Carmel Youth Center, the Scout House, city tennis courts, Mission Trails Park, Carmel schools and Larsen Field at Carmel Mission.

I am confident that this meeting will prove most valuable both to youth as well as adults. I'm looking forward to great results.

IN CLOSING, just a reminder to all interested architects, designers and students of those fields that their sketches for the restrooms and covered waiting area at Devendorf Park are due in City Hall by Nov. 15.

Exercising with a smile,
Mayor Barney

Local Coastal Program meeting is scheduled

By JOANNE HODGEN

THE CARMEL CITY Council has voted to continue discussing the Carmel Local Coastal Program at a special meeting at 3 this afternoon.

The council decided Monday, Nov. 3 it wanted more time to study the draft local coastal land-use plan.

The Carmel Planning Commission gave its nod of approval to the LCP in September.

A plan must be prepared by all coastal areas under the mandate of the 1976 Coastal Act. An earlier Carmel LCP was rejected by the Regional Coastal Commission in April because of inadequate provisions for beach property owned by James Patterson on San Antonio.

The Planning Commission worked with the Carmel Planning Department to revamp the LCP to meet coastal commission recommendations.

Thomas Jamison, a lawyer with Hoge, Fenton, Jones and Appel, asked the City Council Monday to adopt a resolution informing the Coastal Commission that the home of his client, William Smith on Scenic Road, was given approval for construction at the last meeting.

The house proposed by Smith has been opposed by neighbors who have complained that the height interferes with their view.

Jamison told the council Smith cannot build the home until he is given a permit by the Coastal Commission. However, the commission wants action on the proposed use permit standards for beach property before granting it.

City Administrator Doug Peterson said initially the action of the City Council was to send a letter to the commission asking that no permits be issued until the LCP was approved. However, he noted that the council reversed itself and agreed not to send a letter in October.

He said that the commission may be "gun shy" about issuing a permit that might not concur with the LCP.

Councilman Howard Brunn moved that a letter be sent to the commission endorsing the project. Councilwoman Helen Arnold agreed, with the stipulation that the building height met the requirements agreed to at the October meeting.

The building plan, which initially called for a 22-foot high building, was reduced to 18 feet to meet conditions of the proposed LCP.

Councilman Mike Brown stated, however, that the issue be considered again after studying the Planning Commission recommendations.

The council voted 4-1, with Brown dissenting, to send a letter stating its approval for the home.

Mrs. Kettelkamp

Playing musical clerks

JEAN KETTELKAMP will be the next Carmel city clerk, according to Carmel Finance Director Jim Bajari.

The Carmel resident will begin Nov. 17 at a salary of $1,305 monthly, he said.

Mrs. Kettelkamp will be the third city clerk this year.

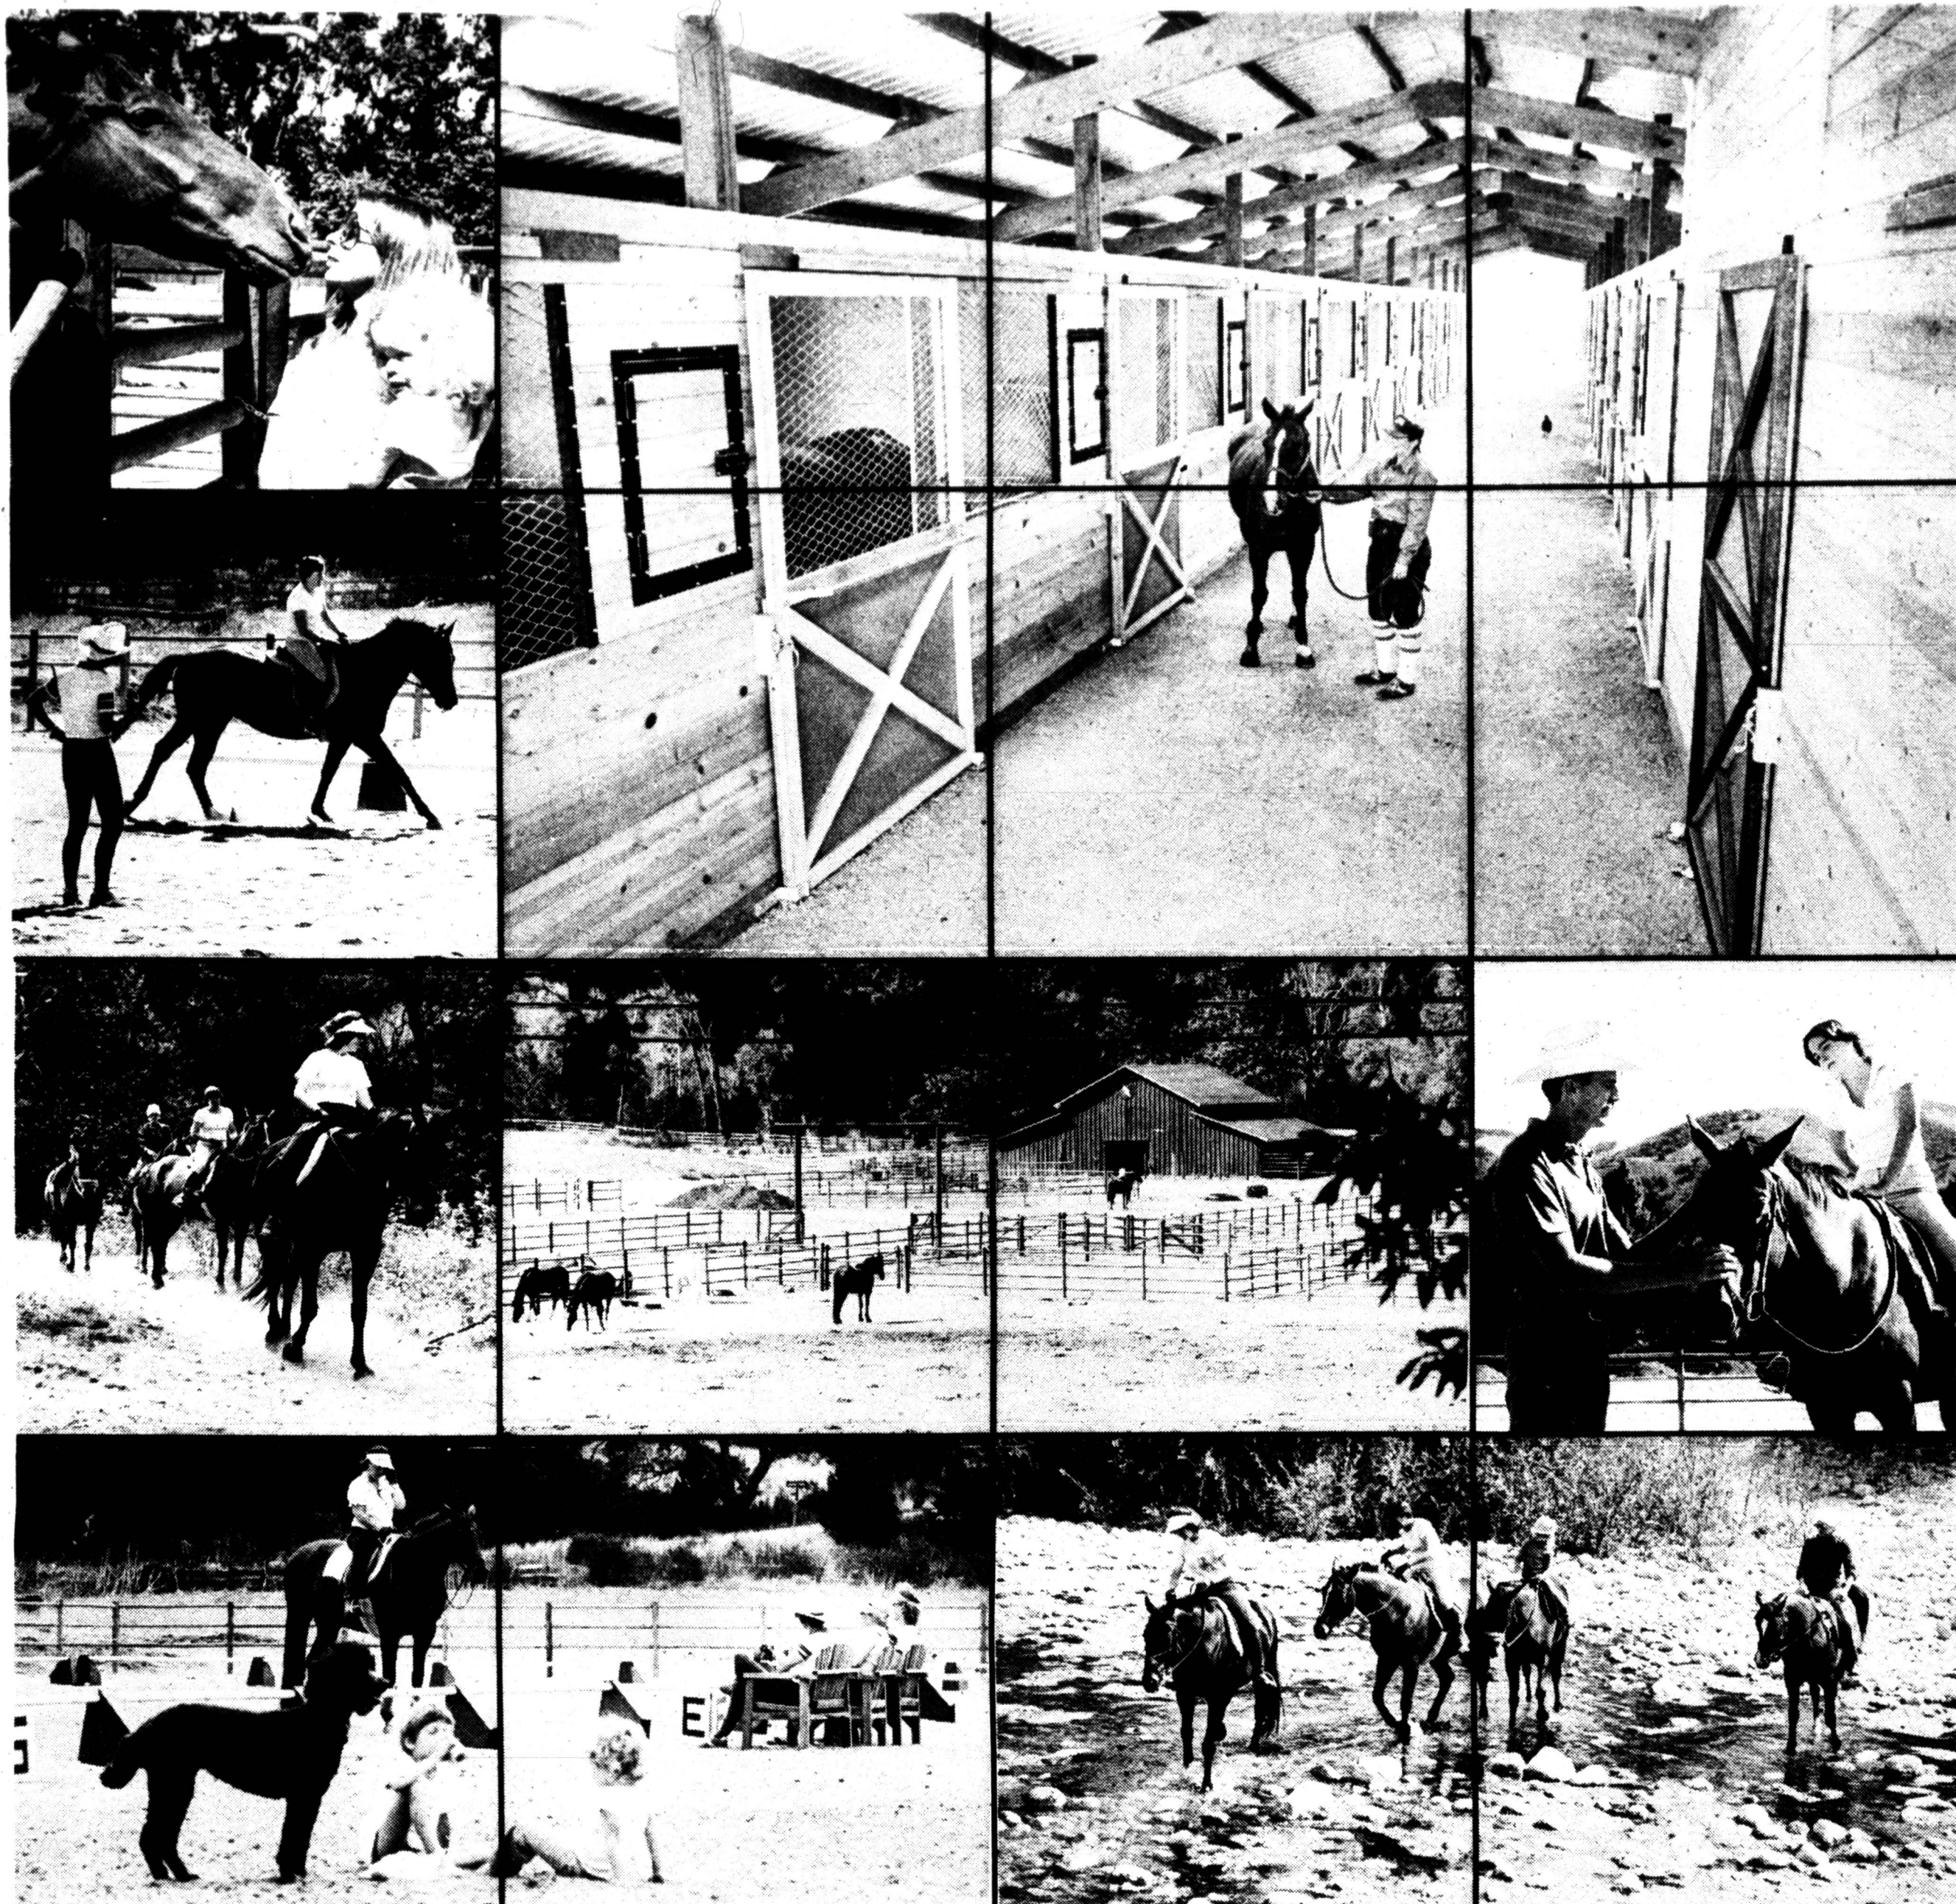

Patricia O'Hearn moved to the Monterey clerk's office in February. She was replaced by Patricia Dantes, who resigned in early October.

Mrs. Kettelkamp has worked at the Monterey city clerk's office the past five years. The next step, she said, was a senior clerk typist's position. She said her responsibilities in Monterey included taking minutes at every other City Council meeting.

Noting that she can almost walk to work now, she said she loves Carmel for its beaches and beauty. She has three children, two at Carmel High School and one who recently graduated.

She said her new position is "definitely a career move."

You owe your horse--and yourself-- the good life at Rancho Laureles SOUND, PROFESSIONAL horse care begins with safe, comfortable accommodations and a high-quality feeding program at Rancho Laureles.

Our deluxe new barn offers the ultimate in luxury, safety and comfort. Each 12 x 12 box stall opens onto a securely fenced 24-foot paddock. Inside, all stalls have foot-cushioning rubber mats, automatic waterers and feeders. Stall fronts and sliding doors have heavy-gauge mesh so the horse benefits from good air circulation and seeing what's going on, while he is prevented from hanging his head over the door and possibly fussing with passing horses or people.

Walls between stalls are solid, so there's no rivalry with the horse next door. And all edges are reinforced with metal anti-chew strips. There's even a convenient blanket rack on each stall door.

Two spacious tack rooms are convenient to all stalls and offer individual tack lockers for each patron.

Of course, our old barn has a charm all its own, with oversized, exceptionally airy stalls and the same large adjoining paddocks. A large new wash rack with hot water to pamper your horse is right outside.

WHERE WE RIDE

Our two securely-fenced riding arenas offer excellent, well-drained sand footing. One measures 135 x 325 and is used for basic schooling as well as jumping. Our new 150 x 275 foot arena includes a regulation dressage court with plenty of room to spare!

And our 75-foot round lungeing arena is proving useful not only for lungeing, but for working green horses or beginning riders who profit from the secure surroundings.

The half-mile sand track that encircles our easterly fields is a perfect place to warm up a horse (or cool him out after a workout), leg up for an event or simply trot a few miles as good exercise.

Then there's Garland Park with its 541 acres of trails, plus the adjoining trails through to Robinson Canyon and the soon-to-be-opened new parkland to the east — a trailrider's paradise, uniquely beautiful every day of the year.

THE FINEST CARE

Now, more than ever, we believe that our feeding program pays off. Our 17% protein alfalfa hay cubes put weight on even rundown, skinny horses and keep it there.

We are also pleased to work with two of Monterey County's finest veterinarians and an excellent farrier, who all contribute to your horse's overall health and well-being.

LESSONS, ANYONE?

Whether you're just learning to post or have a specific problem over fences or in dressage, Doug Downing, our knowledgeable and very personable instructor, will come up with an answer.

He is available for private, semi-private or small group lessons on the flat or over fences.

GOOD COMPANY

One of the nicest things about Rancho Laureles is its relaxed, informal atmosphere. People tend to linger, and that makes us feel good, because it means they like it here. After a ride, they'll sit around, enjoy a cup of coffee or a soft drink and chat — mostly about horses, of course, but not always. Real friendships have grown among our riders.

But best of all, newcomers are made to feel genuinely welcome, whether they're nervous beginners or old pros. There's always a helping hand and a generous sprinkling of advice, and you feel you "belong" right from the start.

Seeing is believing. Why not drive out into the Carmel Valley sunshine to pay us a visit?

THE 50-MAN Monterey Peninsula Cypressaires Chorus will sing in complete harmony Friday and Saturday, Nov. 7-8 at 8 p.m. in the barbershop show at Carmel's Sunset Center Theatre. Also scheduled to perform are the comic Beaver Inn Four, and the modern and glittery California Fever, among other quartets. The theme is Take Your Girlie To The Movies, and music from movies throughout the years is promised to put everyone in a nostalgic mood.

Barbershop quartets to perform at Sunset Center

A handful of barbershop quartets will harmonize favorite tunes from Hollywood productions over the years Friday and Saturday, Nov. 7-8 at 8 p.m. in Take Your Girlie to the Movies, the annual barbershop spectacular at Sunset Center Theater, Carmel.

The 50-man Cypressaires Chorus of the Monterey Peninsula plus local chapter quartets and two well-loved Southern California quartets, California Fever and Beaver Inn Four, will delight audiences.

The program is presented by the Monterey Peninsula Cypressaires Barbershop Chorus of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc.

California Fever, the group who won the Southern California Western Regional Championship, will arrive from Los Angeles to highlight the show.

The Beaver Inn Four, a unique foursome who has been entertaining music lovers with their inimitable classical approach since 1968, will also perform.

Founded on a "purely whimsical notion," these four gentlemen have proven that hard work, dedication, laborious practicing, and personal sacrifices will "get you nowhere, fast," they write.

Named after an animal hotel in the hills of North Whittier, California, their humanitarian efforts working with "hopeless creatures" has brought them national notoriety through Field and Stream, Popular Mechanics, and Playboy magazines.

Probably their most meritorious recognition was bestowed upon them recently by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The four members of the group, Ed Schoemann, tenor; Bob Allen, lead; Mil Camp, baritone, and Gordy Wolter, bass, write that they "certainly hope you will thoroughly enjoy and be pleasantly confused by the Beaver Inn Four's presentation."

Proceeds from the concert are used to support local charities and the society's International Service Project, the Institute of Logopedics in Wichita, Kansas which is devoted to speech therapy. Over three million dollars have been raised by the society under the motto "We Sing That They Shall Speak."

Sunset Center Theater is located at Ninth and San Carlos, Carmel. For further information, phone 624-0396.

All seats are reserved. Tickets are $4.50 and $5.50, available through Hal Golden, 1146 Birch Ave., No. 76, Seaside, 394-7845 or Lily Walker Music Company, 169 Fountain Ave., Pacific Grove, 375-6400.

TENOR ED SCHOEMANN (left), lead Bob Allen, baritone Mil Camp and bass Gordy Wolter, the Beaver Inn Four, have been entertaining music lovers with their inimitable classical approach to barbershop singing since 1968. The jovial group will perform this weekend in the barbershop spectacular at Sunset Center, Carmel.

Lyceum luncheon planned

The Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula will present a luncheon and fashion show Friday, Nov. 7 at Corral de Tierra Country Club, Corral de Tierra Road, Salinas. The luncheon begins at 12:30 p.m. and will be preceded by no-host cocktails at 11:30 a.m.

The fashion show, sponsored by the Carmel Plaza Merchants Association, will be coordinated by Phyllis Carminati.

Tickets are $12.50, and are available through the Lyceum, 1073 Sixth St., Monterey.

For more information, phone 372-6098.

THREE APPRENTICES, from left, Cesare (Sean Carrick), Giovanni (Paul McDonald), and Marco (Brian Yates) examine a canvas in the Staff Players production of Leonardo, an original script about Leonardo Da Vinci by Marcia Gambrell Hovick opening Friday through Sunday, Nov. 7-9 at Carmel's Indoor Forest Theater. 'Leonardo' to open at Indoor Forest Theater

The enigmatic master of the Renaissance, Leonardo Da Vinci, will be the subject of Leonardo, the Staff Players Repertory Company performance opening Friday through Sunday, Nov. 7-9 at 8 p.m. in Carmel's Indoor Forest Theater.

Written by Children's Experimental Theater Director Marcia Gambrell Hovick, this moment of time in Leonardo Da Vinci's life is interwoven with the all-too-human frailties of Lodovico Strozzi's court. Ramie Wikdahl is the director.

Da Vinci was called a black magician as he created the flying machine, Pageant of the Spheres, The Last Supper, and hot water for bathing.

The artist's search for the light of truth in the shadows of love's ideal, greed and power, serves as a dramatic study of a man out of his time.

Little Angel's Rest by Marcia Gambrell Hovick will be presented Dec. 5-14; guest theater night will be Jan. 9-11; The Hollow Crown, Jan. 16-31; Misalliance, Feb. 13-March 22; A Doll's House, March 27-April 26; and Two by Moliere will be presented May 1-24.

The Indoor Forest Theater is located at the corner of Santa Rita and Mt. View in Carmel. Reservations are recommended as seating is limited.

Tickets are $4.50 general and $2.50 students and seniors. For reservations and further information phone the theater at 624-1531.

'Spiral Staircase' to screen here

The Spiral Staircase, a 1946 thriller starring Ethel Barrymore, Dorothy McGuire and George Brent will be screened Tuesday, Nov. 11 at 8 p.m., the third movie of Sunset Center of Carmel's Broadway Theater Film Festival series.

Much praise has been awarded this movie of a mute servant girl in a gloomy household who is endangered by a mysterious killer. The breathlessly suspenseful mystery is superbly directed by Robert Siodmak.

Admission is $2. Tickets are available at the director's office at Sunset Center, San Carlos and Ninth, Carmel, or at the theater on the night of the performance. The series will continue on the second Tuesday evening of each month through June 9.

Yoga, films, chamber music on tap at center

By RICHARD TYLER

A NEW SERIES of hatha yoga classes will be offered at Sunset Center starting today.

The classes will be taught by Paula Rosen, a Peninsula resident, who for the past six years has studied yoga, dance and other body disciplines. Last summer she completed a teacher training course with Swami Satchidananda at the Integral Yoga Institute in Pomfret Center, Conn. She has been working on a B.A. in psychology at Sonoma State University and is completing her degree at Antioch College West, where she is doing research and writing on the mind/body connection in preparation for work in dance therapy. Her interest in yoga as well as dance led her to the study of the body as a tool for enabling the psyche to experience joy and expansion on many levels.

Class instruction will focus on basic postures, breathing exercises and concentration techniques. Beginning classes will be held on Thursday in the Bingham Room from 6 to 7:15 p.m. and beginning-intermediate from 7:30 to 8:45 p.m. starting today and running through Dec. 18. Classes will not be held Nov. 27, Thanksgiving. During the first series, registration will be accepted at any class. For further information, call Miss Rosen at 625-5407.

THE BROADWAY Theater Film Festival will present The Spiral Staircase on Tuesday, Nov. 11, at 8 p.m. in the Sunset Theater at Ninth and San Carlos in Carmel.

This mystery is a suspenseful tale of murderous obsessions which take place in a small American community in the early 1900s. Dorothy McGuire, a mute, is a servant to Ethel Barrymore, the bedridden mistress of a stately mansion. A series of murders has been committed; the victims are all handicapped. Ethel Barrymore is positive Miss McGuire is next.

A superior "thunderstorm story," this admirable cinematic extension of a suspense novel by E.L. White was notable for Robert Siodmak's direction, Nicholas Musuraca's photography and the performance of Miss McGuire as the deaf mute servant terrorized by a maniac in a lonely house. The 1946 film also stars George Brent.

Tickets at $2 are available at the door. However, series tickets for $10 can still be obtained at the director's office before the performance night.

THE CARMEL MUSIC Society presents Hermann Prey, world famous baritone, performing Franz Schubert's song cycle Die Winterreise, opus 89, on Thursday, Nov. 13, at 8 p.m. in Sunset Theater.

Berlin-born Prey has been singing since age 10 when he was a member of the Berlin Mozart Choir. After the war at age 16, he led a school band in concerts for English and American troops. Continuing his studies at the Hochschule fur Musik, he entered and won the third Meistersinger contest, with 2,500 competing singers, which was sponsored by the U.S. Armed Forces in 1952 as part of its German youth activities program. His reward consisted of appearances with Eugene Ormandy in Philadelphia and the Washington National Symphony.

A year later he made his debut at the Hamburg State Opera; and two years after that, at the Vienna State Opera, where he has been a regular guest since. In 1960 Prey made his Metropolitan Opera debut as Wolfram in Tannhauser, the Deutsche Grammophon, showing the development of German song from medieval minnesang to contemporary times.

Complementary to his operatic and recital careers, Prey is a sought-after soloist with major international orchestras including the Berlin Philharmonic, Concertgebouw Orchestra, Boston Symphony, New York Philharmonic, Vienna Philharmonic, Philadelphia Orchestra, London Symphony, Stuttgart Chamber Orchestra and many others.

The versatility of Prey's artistry is well represented in his recordings for many major labels. They include oratorios, Masses and song cycles with orchestra by Mahler, Brahms and Bach; lieder by Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Strauss, and operas such as Fidelio, Die Tote Stadt, The Magic Flute, Le Nozze de Figaro, Capriccio and Ariadne auf Naxos.

Prey has been involved extensively with television for many same role in which he made his Bayreuth debut. He returned to the Met in 1964 for his incomparable Papageno in The Magic Flute, of which Irving Kolodin in Saturday Review stated: "He has found his life's vocation in a characterization of Papageno whose like defies recollection."

During the opening season of the new Metropolitan Opera House in 1966-67, Prey repeated his great success in this role in the Chagall-designed production, returning once again for this role in 1970. He has appeared at the Met many times since in various roles of his repertoire. With his 1969 debut at La Scala, Milan, Prey became the first German baritone to sing the role of Figaro in Il Barbiere de Siviglia at that theater. His Figaro has also been heard in San Francisco, Vienna, Houston, Salzburg, Chicago, Covent Garden and the Met. He has been a frequent guest at all of those opera houses as well as at Bayreuth and the Munich Festival.

Singing recitals occupies a major portion of Prey's time both in the concert hall and in the recording studio. He is hailed throughout the world as one of the foremost interpreters of the German lied.

In 1962 he became the youngest singer ever to be awarded the title Kammersanger, an honor bestowed upon him by the Bavarian minister of culture. In 1977 he completed the recording of a 27-disc anthology of the German lied for years. He has been the star of his own variety show in Munich and has appeared in a series of major recitals and operas taped especially for television. Some of the operas have included Il Turco in Italia, Eugene Onegin, Le Comte Ory and Così fan Tutte, as well as orchestral works such as the Bach B Minor Mass with Richter. He has also appeared in operas filmed for movie theaters.

During the 1979-80 season, Prey's U.S. engagements will include two New York recitals — one on Columbia Artists International Artists Series at Carnegie Hall and one at Rockefeller University, as well as recitals in Montreal and Louisville and appearances as guest soloist with the Houston Symphony in Brahms' Ein Deutsches Requiem. For this very special appearance at Sunset Theater, tickets can be purchased in advance at Bartlett Music in Carmel. Reserved seating is priced at $8.50, $7.50 and $6.25. For more information, call 624-2085.

THE DIWALI FESTIVAL of Lights, the Hindu New Year, will take place tomorrow throughout India. The Hamburg Folk Festival will continue through Dec. 7. The International Festival of Latin Culture taking place in Italy will continue through Nov. 9. Invited groups include those from Luxembourg, Switzerland, Monaco, Belgium and France.

Valley author will autograph Sunday

Carmel Valley psychotherapist and author Judy Tatelbaum will autograph her newly released book, The Courage to Grieve, at a wine and cheese party at the Thunderbird Bookstore in The Barnyard on Sunday, November 9 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

The Courage to Grieve, subtitled Creative Living, Recovery, and Growth Through Grief, is a compassionate guide to grief, an experience all of us will face. The book was written from Ms. Tatelbaum's own experience facing the death of her brother as a teenager and the therapy she has done to help so many others since then.

Ms. Tatelbaum came to Carmel Valley eight years ago from New York City. She has a private Gestalt Therapy practice and has taught at Monterey Peninsula College, University of California, Santa Cruz, and California State Polytechnic University, San Luis Obispo as well as lectured at local organizations.

Everyone is invited to attend. The Barnyard is located at Highway 1 and Rio Road, Carmel.

For further information, phone 659-2270.

Food and wine south of the border

By ROBERT LAWRENCE BALZER

IN SPITE OF INFLATION and international tension, tourism remains one of the world's top industries. And in globe-trotting, we all have one common denominator: food!

We're here in dynamic Mexico City, already the largest city

Backgammon

by Alfred Sheinwold

ACCEPT OR RESIGN?

Black, on roll in the diagrammed position, doubles. Should you accept the double?

Yes.

Black must roll a total of 87 pips on the dice to bear off all of his men without waste. You need only 95 pips. You are therefore only 8 pips (and a roll) behind Black.

Black's lead is a trifle less than the 10% of his count usually prescribed for a double in a pure running game. You could accept if his lead were 15% and can surely afford to accept when his lead is actually only 9%.

In addition, your board is much better than Black's. If you get out fairly quickly with 6-6, 6-5, 5-5 or (later) 4-4, you may eventually be in position to redouble. There is even a remote chance that Black will have to leave a blot and that you will hit it.

To sum up, Black has made a doubtful double. Don't let him get away with it.

Would you like to have Alfred Sheinwold teach you how to play backgammon? A 12-lesson booklet will be on the way to you when you send 50 cents plus a stamped, self-addressed, No. 10 envelope to Backgammon, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1000, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.

WHITE'S HOME BOARD

in the world and growing at the rate of 5,000 souls a month, for the first international congress of restaurants and tourism, Primeras Jornadas Internacionales de Gastronomía y Turismo.

Organized by Luis Marcet of the spectacular restaurant Meson del Cid, and Professor Jorge De Angeli, author of El Mundo del Vino, it brought together registrants and speakers from all over the world, correspondents from Barcelona, Madrid, France and the United States, hotel-keepers, restaurateurs and winemakers.

The four-day conference was held in the heart of the city at the Hotel Maria Isabel Sheraton, and before you wonder about the problem of communication, let us tell you that the Conquistadore Conference Room of the hotel looked for all the world like a meeting room of the United Nations. Rows of tables in neat precision, with green covers, had earphones at each place with a dial apparatus to turn to the instant language translation of your native choice. No problems.

Though she has been a resident of Mexico for 23 years, Diana Kennedy, the widow of an English journalist, author of The Cuisine of Mexico and The Tortilla Book, while fluent in Spanish, was asked to speak in English. She discussed Images of Mexican Cookery Among American Tourists.

Her provocative observations evoked considerable argument from her Mexican listeners. But there were also many nodding heads from indigenous admirers to whom she is known as the inglesita, an endearing pet-name for this English woman whom the world recognizes as the first authority on the fascinating and varied cuisines of Mexico.

"Mexican food is number one in popularity where ethnic foods are considered in U.S.A.," Mrs. Kennedy said. "This has helped to build a new awareness of this country which shares a 2,000-mile border. The gastronomic fervor currently in the States embraces culinary adventuring, but there are certain prejudices concerning Mexican food."

"It's too spicy, too greasy, and indigestible in the opinion of some. There are also cultural taboos working against it, with things like pigs' feet, some weeds, wild mushrooms and new taste sensations that are far from the meat and potato eaters' familiar menu. Brave Americans will eat Huevos Rancheros as breakfast food, but simple dishes like guacamole can become very popular when well made."

Mrs. Kennedy pointed to the broad range of cuisines to be embraced in Mexico, from Sonora, Oaxaca, Yucatan, Morelia and Tampico, all different regional flavors and flavors. She drew fire when she said greater standards of cleanliness should be imposed by the government in food handling and service with kitchen inspections mandatory. True or false, it is, she declared, a part of the American image which needs attention.

WE DINED in marvelous restaurants, with food from impeccable kitchens.

We drank wonderful wines from Mexican vineyards, enjoying particularly the Blanc de Blancs from Hidalgo Vinos de Mesa produced by Francisco Domench, a young enologist with training at the University of California at Davis.

Two of the more exciting dining events were at the award-winning Ambassadeurs and La Cava restaurants of Jordi Escofet, the latter serving wholly Mexican cuisine of fascinating taste and exquisite presentation.

From the Escofet wine cellar of Ambassadeurs, broad ranging from all leading wine countries of the world, our host served what is perhaps the finest French Burgundy of our tasting experience. That's a tall statement, but the enthusiasm of the guests brought on encore pourings which proved the first glass was not an illusion of excellence.

It's possible this wine is still available in better wine shops of the United States, and it's worth making a search for. It is the 1972 Gevrey-Chambertin from the vineyards and cellars of Louis Latour of Burgundy. The eight-year-old wine has an incredible freshness, a bouquet which has more than a hint of raspberries mingling with the traditional varietal intensity of Pinot Noir grapes, the finish of French oak present, but not intrusive to the long-lasting wonder of the grape.

We can remember as if it were yesterday our previous highpoint of Burgundian excellence, a 1929 Romanee Conti, noble, dignified, complex, ponderous, elegant, of huge expanding bouquet. It remains a traditional standard.

But this Latour Gevrey-Chambertin had all of this plus the incredible freshness of berries. Both wines are of translucent ruby brilliance, not the deep, dark garnet of inky black heaviness too often mistakenly believed to be the hallmark of big Burgundies.

We believe this Latour Burgundy is the ideal toward which Robert Mondavi is striving with Pinot Noir in California. Someday, maybe it will be attained. Discoveries like this along the wine trail are the joy of the continuing adventure with wine.

We will return enriched from our meetings in this wonderful city, with an expanded awareness of the friendly cultural ties to be made at tables, at home and abroad.

EDDIE CARBONE (Henry Littlefield) is quite surprised when Catherine (Marjie Wesner) gives him a hug in Arthur Miller's View From The Bridge performed by Monterey Peninsula College drama department Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 8-9 at the Monterey YMCA Building. Performances continue weekends throughout November.

Arthur Miller drama to open in Monterey

An off campus performance of Arthur Miller's View From The Bridge will be presented Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 8-9 at 8:30 p.m. by the Monterey Peninsula College Drama Department.

The performances, directed by Nick Zanides, will feature Henry Littlefield and Hal Peiken in Miller's rendition of an American longshoreman's interaction with his Italian in-laws. Additional members of the cast include Margie Wesner who starred in Hartnell College's production School for Scandal, and Keith Decker, who played in Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead at Carmel's Forest Theater.

View From The Bridge will be performed every Saturday and Sunday throughout the month of November.

Performances will be at the Monterey YMCA Building, 404 Camino El Estero, Monterey.

Admission is $3.50 and everyone is welcome to attend. For further information, phone 646-4063.

Sierra Club sponsors hikes

The Sierra Club will host three hikes this week: a backpack trip to Buckskin Flat Camp, a Terrace Creek hike and a hike through Del Monte Forest. Everyone is welcome to join in the outings.

A backpack trip to Buckskin Flat Camp will be Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 8-9. Those interested should meet behind Brinton's, Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, Carmel at 8 a.m. for carpooling.

The trip will include a hike up the Carmel River Trail above Los Padres Dam, crossing the Carmel River several times. Driver reimbursement is $2.

For more information, phone 1-484-1240.

A Terrace Creek hike will be held Saturday, Nov. 8. Meet at Brinton's at 8 a.m. for carpooling. The hike will follow the Old Coast Road from Ventana Big Sur to Terrace Creek Trail, on to Pine Ridge Trail and then return to Pfeiffer Big Sur Park.

Bring lunch, water and a windbreaker. Suggested carpool fee is $2.

Veteran's Day observance planned at Devendorf Plaza

Most businesses will remain open Tuesday, Nov. 11, though schools, the post office and county government offices will be closed in observance of Veteran's Day.

The Carmel Post of the American Legion will honor the casualties of all wars of the United States Tuesday, Nov. 11 at 11 a.m. in Devendorf Plaza, Junipero and Ocean avenues, Carmel. Congressman Leon Panetta is scheduled as the speaker of the ceremony, unless his official duties as Congressman from the 16th District require his presence in Washington, D.C. Fort Ord will send a bugler and six riflemen to fire a salute, and trumpeteer Joe Ingram, one of the best in Northern California, will play taps. Rick Mercer, commander of Post 512, will lead the ceremony.

Seaside American Legion Post 591 will also observe Veteran's Day with a similar ceremony on Tuesday, Nov. 11 at the site of the eternal flame, Seaside City Hall, 440 Harcourt Ave., Seaside, at 10:30 a.m. The Fort Ord 7th Infantry Band will perform following a proclamation to be read by Seaside Mayor Glenn Olea. Maj. General Thomas Ayres of Fort Ord will speak.

Father Farrell's Wisdom

Let us build bridges of friendship

By the REV. LARRY FARRELL

Invocation at the blessing of the new bridge at Heritage Harbor Aug. 28.

Oh almighty and eternal God, we ask Thee to bless this well-constructed bridge or crossway.

May all who use it be protected from harm: physical, mental and moral.

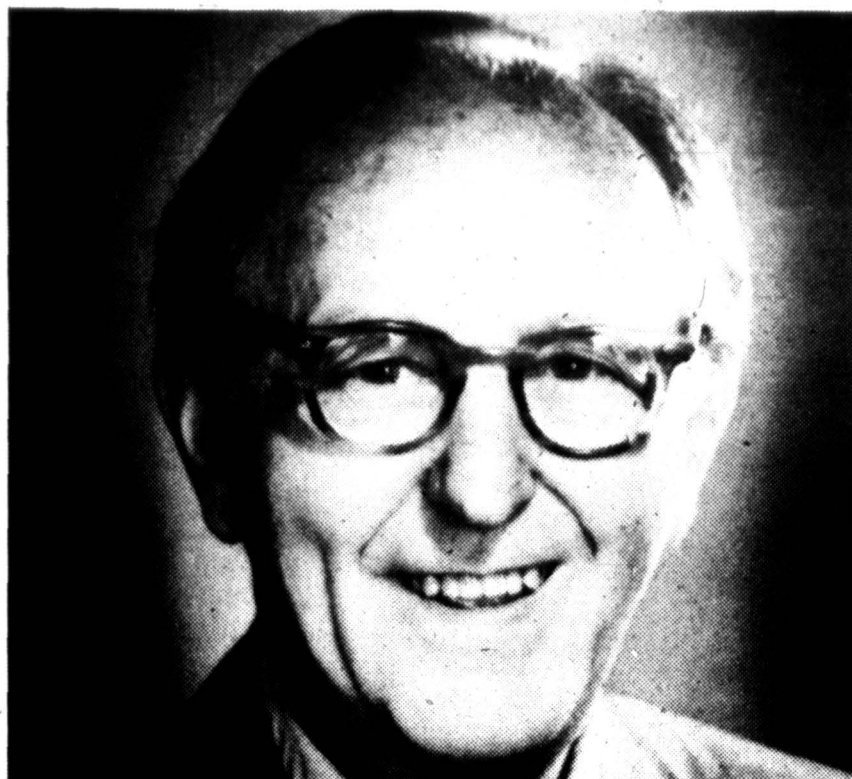

My maternal great-grandmother who arrived in California in 1848 used to say the "better the day the better the deed." Today is Aug. 28, 1980, and it is the 196th anniversary of the death of the venerable Padre Junipero Serra at the Mission San Carlos del Rio Carmelo.

Padre Francisco, the first pastor of Mission Dolores in San Francisco, was the biographer of his fellow missionary and he describes Padre Serra's death in great detail. He tells us how the saintly padre was surrounded by Franciscan padres, Spanish sailors and soldiers and hundreds of his beloved Indian neophytes. They were overcome by sorrow as the bells tolled hour after hour until his burial.

If Padre Junipero Serra is canonized by the Church — raised to her altars as the apostle of California — his feast day will be Aug. 28. So as long as we remember Padre Serra's feast day we will be able to recall the day we blessed the bridge at Heritage Harbor. Facing the bridge to the east is the Old Whaling Station, an adobe built in the 19th century being restored by the Junior League.

From here the whalers from the Azores went out into Monterey Bay with Capt. Mike Noon manning the harpoon. In my youth I remember Mike Noon as a legendary constable. From this bridge we are reminded that in this part of Monterey we can reach out and touch our colorful and historic past.

We now christen this bridge the "Whalers' Walk." We resolve to go on building bridges of friendship between people, not walls of fear and prejudice. Grant us the understanding and wisdom to do just that in the Master's name.

KAY KYSER will lecture on Christian Science Tuesday, Nov. 11 at noon at Carmel's Sunset Center, Ninth and San Carlos. He is well-known as the "Ole Perfessor" of Kollege of Musical Knowledge quiz show.

Bandleader to speak

Kay Kyser, the "ole Perfessor" of Kollege of Musical Knowledge quiz show and one of the Big Band Era's leading conductors, will be in Carmel Tuesday, Nov. 11, at noon to present a talk on Christian Science. Everyone is welcome to attend the presentation at Sunset Center, Ninth and San Carlos.

Kyser, a bandleader who gave the world Ish Kabibble and Mike Douglas, used his cornball wit and southern charm to make Kollege one of radio's top-rated programs for 13 years. He also made seven films in Hollywood including My Favorite Spy and Swing Fever.

Today, Kyser is still in education, but the education is the teachings of the Church of Christ, Scientist.

The leading conductor became a Christian Scientist in 1933, a year before he and his orchestra hit the bigtime in radio.

He is now one of only 35 people who hold the position worldwide. His talk will be on There is a Way Out — God's Way.

Child care will be provided. For further information, phone 624-4704.

Alter Society 'Day of Recollection'

The Carmel Mission Altar Society will sponsor a Day of Recollection Thursday, Nov. 13, moderated by Reverend Michael Miller, Director, Diocesan Office of Education. The theme will be, We Are Clay in God's Hands.

The program will commence at 9:45 a.m. in Crespi Hall and will end at 2:15 p.m. following 1:30 p.m. mass in the Mission Chapel.

Those attending should bring a sandwich and dessert and a beverage will be provided.

All women of the community are invited. Carmel Mission is located on Rio Road in Carmel.

For further information, phone Mrs. John Frier, 624-8261.

Seascape artist opens exhibit Saturday at Zantman Art Galleries

An exhibit of paintings of the sea by E. John Robinson will open with a reception Saturday, Nov. 8 from 5-8 p.m. at Zantman Art Galleries, Sixth Avenue at Mission, Carmel. The artist will be present to sign copies of his new book, Master Class in Seascape Painting. Everyone is welcome to attend.

In the introduction to one of his books on seascape painting, John Robinson writes: "In a constant effort to improve, I'm always competing with myself. I try to reach beyond what I've done in the past and seek out that which is new to me, a challenge that tries my creativity and my ability. There's no need to repeat the successes of the past when nature has so many new and exciting points of interest."

This is E. John Robinson's answer to the question so often asked: "How can an artist make a career of painting just one subject:

the sea?"

E. John Robinson's early years were spent along the Oregon coast. His education in fine art took place at the Cornish School of Allied Arts, Seattle; the California College of Arts and Crafts, Oakland, and San Francisco State College, where he received an M.F.A. degree. He has been a successful art teacher, but now devotes full time to painting, imparting his knowledge of how to paint the sea with three books on marine painting, the most recent of which was published early in 1980.

Any of the paintings may be purchased prior to opening night. They will be on display at least through the end of November. Zantman Art Galleries is open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

For further information, phone 624-8314.

KEANAE, MAUI, an oil painting by well-known seascape artist and author E. John Robinson is currently on view at Zantman Art Galleries, Sixth Avenue at Mission, Carmel. Everyone is welcome to attend a reception for the artist Saturday, Nov. 8 from 5-8 p.m. He will sign copies of his latest book, Masterclass in Seascape Painting.

Chubet exhibit to open

A retrospective exhibit of the art of Jose Chubet, often deemed one of the most creative Carmel painters, will open Friday, Nov. 7 through Nov. 29 at Dooley Gallery, San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, Carmel. Everyone is welcome to attend a reception Friday, Nov. 7 from 7-9 p.m.

This artist's work involves enormously colorful abstractions whose effect is comparable to that experienced when staring into a fire. There's a great deal of imagery in the fluid forms and brilliant fusing colors which create a rhythm on the canvas and suggest ever-changing panoramas and fantasy landscapes. Contrasts between crisply outlined shapes and fluffy ones contribute to the visual appeal of these works.

Jose Chubet was a friend to many, and to those who knew him he left a tremendous impact. The artist faced congenital heart disease, which he fought magnificently until his death in 1980. He produced an amazing body of work during his short life.

Stimulated by the art activity in the Monterey peninsula, Jose began his serious creative period in 1966. He sketched continuously, producing reams of drawings from life or from memory of people in restaurants, on the street, or from posed models.

Chubet received his major art study at Hun School at Princeton under artist Bill Monaghan, and while still a student was given several one-man shows there. One of his paintings hangs on permanent display in the Princeton Public Library.

Pursuing further study, Chubet worked under the guidance of Arthur Trickett. He had a major one-man show of his oils at the Pacific Grove Art Center, and worked and exhibited at the Helen Dooley Gallery for the last two years of his life.

A student of metaphysics, Jose reflected the symbolism of the occult in his work.

Each of his paintings is a key to higher consciousness in some form. He stated: "My paintings are like windows into the unknown, inspired by meditation and studies in higher consciousness. Some are aspects on God, people, physics, and classical forms of art images, real and imaginary, from ancient to present-day forms interpreted in modern-day terms. Some of my paintings are interpretations of the music I play," he wrote.

Chubet had 15 years of study and performance on the guitar, which he studied under Dominic Zullo. His art reflects the rhythms of his music.

The Monterey Peninsula Museum has chosen two of his paintings and 10 of his drawings for their permanent collection. Sunset Center of Carmel has also obtained two oil paintings for their permanent collection.

Dooley Gallery is open from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

For further information, phone 624-9258.

PAM, by Jose Chubet, a highly esteemed former Carmel artist, is included in a retrospective exhibit of his work opening with a reception from 7-9 p.m. Friday, Nov. 7 at Dooley Gallery, San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, Carmel. This is a highly symbolic portrait of an actual woman and reflects his interest in mystical thought.

Artist's reception planned at Orientique Gallery

Orientique Gallery presents Glimpses of Japan by Mary Lou Morse opening with a reception for the artist Friday, Nov. 7 from 5:30-7:30 p.m. at the gallery in The Windmill Courtyard, The Barnyard, Carmel. Everyone is welcome to attend. The show will run through Nov. 16.

The work of Mary Lou Morse features enamel on copper, a fresh approach in an old medium.

The Barnyard is located at Highway 1 and Rio Road.

For further information, phone 625-5038.

Calligraphy class opens

Pacific Grove Art Center will offer a calligraphy class from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Wednesdays, Nov. 12-Dec. 3 at the center's classroom/gallery, No. 19, 568 Lighthouse Ave., Pacific Grove.

FREE WANT ADS

For subscribers to the Carmel Pine Cone

A SPECIAL OFFER TO OUR VALUED SUBSCRIBERS

The Pine Cone is happy to be here and we always look forward to meeting our subscribers. As a gesture of our thanks for your continued support, we invite you to have a FREE WANT AD every week, in your paper.

HOW TO WRITE A WANT AD

List the classification you want your ad to appear under in the form at right. Then start your ad with the item you have for sale, etc. Be sure to include your phone number at the end. To make your ad effective, describe your item fully including such things as weight, size, color, age, condition, etc. It is best to list your asking price; this will eliminate calls from people who are not prospective buyers.

RULES:

Free want ads are for person-to-person sales only. Ads for businesses or real estate will not be accepted. Free ads must be written on this form only and delivered to our office by 3 p.m. Monday (no phone ads, please). Free ads are limited to 16 words. The Pine Cone is not responsible for errors in free ads. Limit is one ad per subscriber per week. To run the same ad the following week, a new ad on a new form must be submitted. Publisher reserves the right to refuse any free ad for any reason. Free ads must be placed in the following classifications: Antiques, Autos for Sale, Boats for Sale, Lost & Found, Misc. for Sale, Pets & Livestock, Special Notices, Wanted, Yard Sales.

ATTACH THE ADDRESS LABEL ON YOUR PERSONAL COPY OF THE PINE CONE HERE

This label is your ticket for a free ad and must appear here on any ad you turn in. Clip this label from the front page of your weekly Pine Cone.

CARMEL BUILDING SITE AND INCOME PROPERTY COMBINED

Didn't you always want to live in a forest of beautiful trees near a gently flowing river? Yet be just moments from all the amenities of life you've come to enjoy. Wouldn't you like the fun of converting this delightful red barn into a modern home? Or would you rather keep it in its pristine condition and build a new valley-view home nearby? You can enjoy income from 5,000 trees, proximity to town (two miles), valley views, and even may be catch a fish — in season — from the southerly edge of your riverside property. 2.77 acres not dividable but beautifully livable.
$325,000.

YANKEE POINT OCEAN VIEW PROPERTY

You cannot find a better view piece of property anywhere around here now that we know of for as little money as is required to purchase this home just five miles south of Carmel. Located just across the street from cliffside properties commanding million dollar prices, this home features two bedrooms, two baths, living room, kitchen, double carport, large lot to expand on, access to the area private beach, and it is inexpensive by current standards. $229,950.

PROUDLY PRESENTS

"The Perfect Marriage" between

"Investor"

and

"Home Buyer"

The investor contributes 20% of the purchase price (appraised value) in cash and receives 50% of the "write offs" while owning 50% of the property as "tenant in common" with the "buyer." When the house is "sold" in two to five years the investor receives their initial investment back first and then splits the "net profit" with the "buyer" on a 50/50 basis. Thus the "traditional headaches" of: (1) monthly "negative" cash flow (2) vacancy and (3) maintenance of the property have been eliminated by the "buyer" who has a vested interest in the property. We have some "Commercial" and apartment house properties available.

The "Buyer" contributes only about 3% of the purchase price in cash as "closing costs" . . . but the buyer must: (1) live in the house (2) make all monthly payments including taxes & insurance (3)
"maintain" the property and pay for all repairs. The buyer receives 50% of the "write off" each year and 50% of the net profit in 2-5 years when the property is sold.
Thus the "buyer" with a good income but no cash can select a home of their choice and wind up owning 50% of it for just being a responsible tenant. We have a wide selection of homes and payments ranging from starter homes in Seaside to mansions in Pebble Beach.

Call any one of our 3 offices for an appointment to discuss this program and to examine the legal documents.

"Brooksong"
On Coast Ridge Drive

In the stillness of the evening, as the sky is flamed by sunset over the ocean framed by fragrant pines, you hear the murmur of a willow-bordered creek flowing through the three-fourths-acre site of "Brooksong", a just-completed home with a heavy shake roof, exterior walls of cedar and wide decks on its two levels providing outdoor enjoyment.

Stepping into the entry with a wet bar, your eyes encompass the flowing space which embraces living, dining and breakfast rooms, also the kitchen, all of which feature soaring ceilings of natural wood and oak plank flooring.

A raised-hearth, adobe fireplace centers the living room.

A counter divides the custom kitchen and breakfast room.

The master suite has a greenhouse window, compartmented bath/dressing area with walk-in closets and its own deck. Downstairs are three more bedrooms, two more baths and a laundry and a wine cellar. A detached double garage adds to the livableness of this 3,000 sq. ft. home situated on land designated as significant by the coastal commission because Indians, appreciating this sheltered, sunny site, also the year-round creek, chose it as a camping ground.
